Preface

The aim of secondary education is to make the learners fit for entry into higher education by flourishing their latent talents and prospects with a view to building the nation with the spirit of the Language Movement and the Liberation War. To make the learners skilled and competent citizens of the country based on the economic, social, cultural and environmental settings is also an important issue of secondary education.

The textbooks of secondary level have been written and compiled according to the revised curriculum 2012 in accordance with the aims and objectives of National Education Policy-2010. Contents and presentations of the textbooks have been selected according to the moral and humanistic values of Bengali tradition and culture and the spirit of Liberation War 1971 ensuring equal dignity for all irrespective of caste and creed of different religions and sex.

The present government is committed to ensure the successful implementation of Vision 2021. Honorable Prime Minister, Government of the People's Republic of Bangladesh, Sheikh Hasina expressed her firm determination to make the country free from illiteracy and instructed the concerned authority to give free textbooks to every student of the country. National Curriculum and Textbook Board started to distribute textbooks free of cost since 2010 according to her instruction.

The book Business Entrepreneurship for classes Nine-Ten is developed at the beginning of 21st century to change the demand and mindset of the students along with the changing span of time under revised curriculum.

Considering the challenges and commitments of 21st century and following the revised curriculum the textbook has been written. Recently the rational evaluation and tryout program has been completed to make correction and revision of the textbook. I hope the outcomes of the program will be reflected in this revised edition. We will continue our effort to make the next edition of this book more beautiful, decent and free from any types of errors.

I thank sincerely all for their intellectual labor who were involved in the process of revision, writing, editing, art and design of the textbook.

CHAPTER ONE

Introduction to Business

The basic reason behind the emergence of business was the feeling of want of human beings. To meet up this want, men engaged themselves for earning a living through various economic activities. In fact, business evolved on the basis of economic activities and transactions. From this chapter we will be able to know the different aspects of business like its concept, origin, features, classification and business environment.

By the end of this chapter we will be able to

- describe the concept of business, its origin and its stages of development.
- explain business scope and features.
- describe different types of business.
- explain the importance of business.
- describe the concept and various categories of industry.
- explain concept of commerce and its classification.
- describe the concept of services and its various nature with examples.
- identify various elements of environment affecting business.

CONCEPTS OF BUSINESS

Mr. Asaduzzaman, a Business Studies teacher, came to his first class of Business Entrepreneurship of students of class nine. All the students cordially greeted him. After exchanging greetings, he asked an open question to all the students, "Among all of you, who has come from a business family?" One student replied that his father has a business of rice trading. Another student replied that his father has a Poultry Farm. One student said that his father owns a Pharmacy. Another one said that her mother has a Beauty Parlor. The teacher listened to every one carefully and said that Trading of Rice, Raising Poultry, Selling Medicine and operating Beauty Parlor; each of these represents an economic activities. All the economic activities of your guardians will be included in business if it is done for the purpose of earning a living and with the intention of making a profit.

Generally, economic activities with a view to making a profit are termed as business. Producing food, rearing poultry, cultivating vegetables etc. for the family members are not business. But, when a farmer cultivates paddy or grows vegetables to make a profit, it will be treated as business. But all the economic activities operated to make profit will be treated as business if it is done legally and in right ways.

Business has some other features which separate it from other professions. Goods or services related to business must have monetary value. Risk factors are another feature of business. Mainly, a business person makes investment to earn profit. However, he must have the feeling for services along with generating profit. Another significant feature of business is its sense of morality and social responsibility.

Origin and Evolution of Business

Over time, the scope of economic activities increase on the basis of human demand. As a result activities like hunting, producing crops and exchanging goods (barter system) started. But, exchanging goods or products could not meet up all the needs. Because of this, in place of barter system uses of coins of Gold/Silver (bullions), and later paper note was introduced as a medium of exchange. The evolution of business can be classified as Primitive age, Middle age and Modern age.

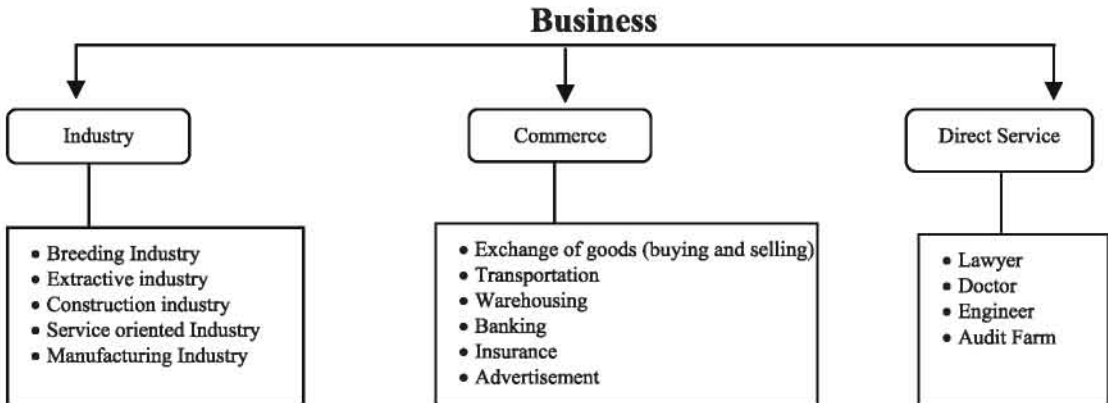

Steps of Business Evolution

Primitive Age	Middle Age	Modern Age

Scope and Classification of Business

Today's business is not limited to buying and selling goods only. Business is the combination of production of goods and services, exchanging of goods and other activities associated with it. Transportation, Insurance, Banking, Warehousing/Storing and Advertisement play significant role in exchanging products and goods. Modern business can be classified in the following three types:

- Industry
- Commerce
- Direct Services

Industry

Industry is considered as the carrier of production. Industry is the process in which natural resources are collected and turned into raw material. After that, finished goods are prepared by processing that raw material for human use. Industry is mainly divided into five categories:

- Genetic Industry: Products produced in this industry are used for further production. Example nursery
- Extractive Industry: Through this industry natural resources are collected from the environment such as earth, air and water. For example - mining.
- Construction Industry: Through this industry roads and highways, bridge, culvert etc are constructed
- Manufacturing Industry: In this type of Industry labour and machine are used to process raw material to make finished goods. Such as textile mills,
- Service Industry: This industry includes those economic activities which make life of individual's easy and comfortable. For example, production and distribution of Electricity, Gas, Banking and Health Services etc.

Commerce

Commerce is the branch of business that distributes products and services. Commerce includes all the activities from delivering raw materials to the producer for the purpose of manufacturing or delivering goods and services to the consumer. While buying and selling various problems regarding finance, risk, place, time and information may arise. To remove these obstacles, the help of various departments of Commerce such as Transportation, Storage, Banking, Insurance, Distribution and Advertisement are needed. In modern age commerce is termed as Business to Business.

Roles of various elements of commerce is depicted in the following chart –

Various Constraints in Business	Elements of Business	Role
Possession	Exchange of goods and services	Removes the constraints of ownership
Placement	Transportation	Removes the constraints related to place
Timing	Storing	Removes the constraints related to time
Finance	Banking	Removes the constraints related to money
Risk factors	Insurance	Removes the risk factors
Information	Advertisement	Removes the obstacles related to information and circulation.

Direct Services

Various self employed professionals like doctor, lawyer, architect provide their specialized services in exchange of money as a mode of earnings. These sorts of activities are called direct services or profession, Such as chamber of a doctor, lawyer's chamber, Architect firm, Audit firm etc. Direct Services is a significant part of modern business.

Importance of Business

Though business is considered as economic activities, it contributes to the overall development of the socio-economic and political condition of a country. From small shops to large industries all have been set up with assessing the necessities of business. In the modern world the importance of business is infinite. The countries that are at the peak of development are developed in the sectors of business as well. Through business, proper utilization of resources is possible and it quickens the development of the economic condition of a country. Business contributes in savings. Thus formation of capital happens and national income increases. Business helps to create employment for the unemployed. Business develops the research and creative activities. Business helps to exchange cultural views in addition to exchange of goods and services. New cities and ports emerge for the sake of Business.

After passing SSC, Halima started a business with a small capital. Day by day her business grew a successful business in the area. At present, nearly 50 men and women work in her organization. Most of the workers are the homeless from river erosion. At the very beginning, Halima arranges to train them simply. They make clothes of artistic design, design saree, three piece, Panjabee, fatua etc with needle and yarn and sale them. Halima decided to enlarge her business. But, she moved to village rather than city. She wishes to utilize the village women. Day by day, most of the women of her village got involved in her business. As a result, their economic condition started changing in addition to their changes of standard of living.

Activity-3: Write down your concept of importance of Business after reading the story of Halima's Business.

Business Environment:

Environment influences our life style, behavior, learning, culture, economy and business. Environment is the combination of all the elements influencing the lifestyle and economic activities of the people of a particular region. The elements include - Geography, Climate, Rivers, Mountains, Forests, Nationality, Religion, Education etc. Business environment thus can be defined as the combination of all the natural and artificial elements; directly or indirectly influencing the formation of business organization, its activities and development or deterioration. The development of Business condition of a certain place depends on the environment of business.

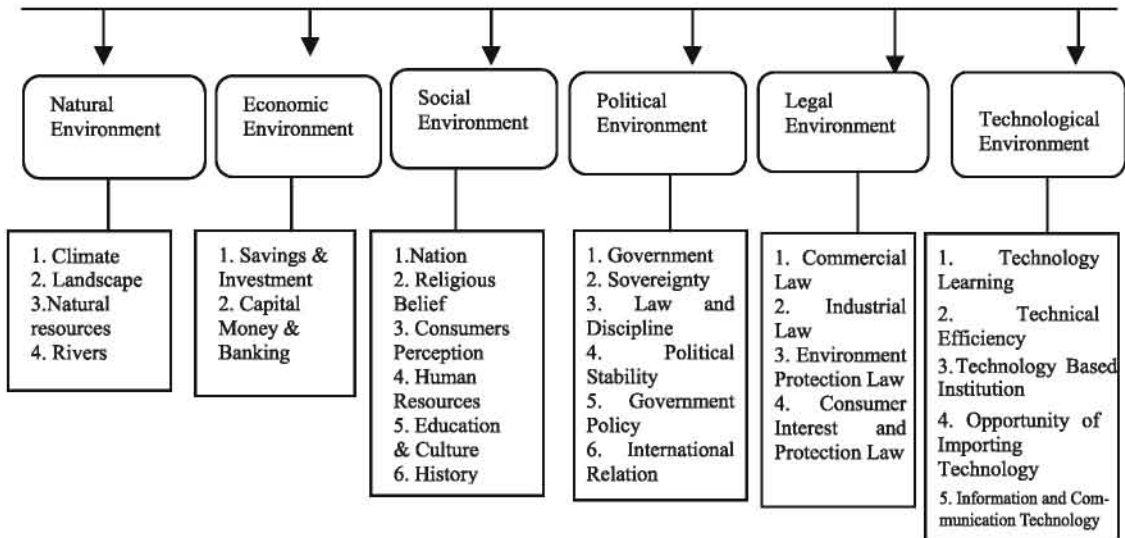

Chittagong port

Though there are various types of business environment, they are classified as the following six main categories:

- Natural Environment
- Economic Environment
- Political Environment
- Social Environment
- Legal Environment
- Technical Environment

BUSINESS ENVIRONMENT

Business Environment in Bangladesh

Bangladesh is an agro based developing country. But the contribution of Business to economy specifically industry and commerce has been increasing every year. Once upon a time, this area was famous worldwide for trade and commerce. Reputation of Sonargaon for making 'Moslin cloth' and Chittagong for ship building, spread all over the world. Moslin clothes made in Sonargaon and its adjacent areas used to be exported to countries in Europe and Africa. Our country has always been well known for its trade and commerce. Long ago, allured by the reputation of business of this region, the Arabs came here and established business relationship with our ancestors. Business in this area was so developed that it used to direly compete with the historically famous Tamrolipto and Shaptagram. The fame of Business of this region spread around Europe and beyond the countries of East. The Portuguese arrived here in 1600 AD and started business. They used to call Shaptagram as 'Porto Piqueno' or small port and Chittagong as 'Porto Grando' or big port. It is mentionable that Shaptagram of West Bengal was also famous as a commercial port. Business with Shaptagram used to be maintained through Bhagirathi river and Sharswati canal with Bay of Bengal. Our country was also famous for conducting Business through sea. Sea going ships were also built in this country. As per statement made by Chinese tourist Mr. Mahuyan, Roman Emperor did not like the Dock and Ship of Alexandria and had selected to make his ships from Chittagong perceiving its superiority of construction technique. There were a number of ship building dockyards of efficient local architect at Haliashahar and Patenga of Chittagong. The dockyards of that place then, buzzed with the sound of hammer. The then 'businessman' of this country owned hundreds of ship. Famous historian WW Hunter stated that those ship building dockyards maintained their reputation till 1875.

Sonargaon: the ancient capital of Bengal and famous center for trade and commerce

In this competitive world, it is difficult to sustain in business if the environmental elements are not supportive. The environmental elements of business are discussed below in context to Bangladesh:

Natural Element: Most of the elements of natural environment in Bangladesh are supportive for business. There is river in most of places in the country. As a result, raw materials for various agro based industry and consumer products can easily be grown. We have natural gas for business and industry. Existing Coal, Lime Stone, Hard Rock, and Crude Oil is helpful for establishing industry. Though our forest is decreasing, we are still rich in forest resources. Since we have numerous rivers and bounded by sea, suitable environment for development of fisheries industry also prevails here.

Economic Element: Prevailing effective money and banking system, contribution of agriculture and industry, savings and investment mentality of people and government assistance, work as a strong element for economic environment. In Bangladesh, some of the economic elements have strong base but most of them are very weak. Lack of sufficient capital, insufficient availability of banking facility for village people comparing to those of city dwellers, administrative complexity, harassment of middlemen and upward inflation are prevalent. If all these constraints are removed, Bangladesh can advance more rapidly for development in business.

Social Element: Nationality, religious belief, consumers perception, human resources, education and culture, science and technology most of these social elements in Bangladesh are positive for expansion of business. From national, historical and cultural context people of this country are liberal, industrious and creative. In the past, people of this country marked their brilliance and industry by making Moslin cloth and building ship. Once Sonargaon was best in the world for trade, education, agriculture, literature, culture, industry and handicrafts. At present, Jamdani Saree making and ship building have been able to catch the eye of world. The future generation shall be able to show their brilliance in industry, commerce, trade research etc. if it is possible to break the system of memorization and make them competent and efficient by coming out from the present education system. Besides, use of technology should be emphasized in all sectors of trade and commerce.

Political Environment: Sound law and order situation and positive industry and trade policy, good relationship with neighboring countries and others help to expand business. On the other hand, political instability, frequent government changes, Hartal, strike and lack of business friendly industry and trade policy etc. are negative elements of political environment which hinder the development of industry and trade. Foreign investors also become disinterested to invest in such environment. The above mentioned elements of political environment in Bangladesh are not in a position of optimum level. By removing all the negative elements, such as labor unrest, strike and hartal etc. the political elements for business can be improved in Bangladesh.

Legal Elements: Though some of the elements of legal environment in Bangladesh are modern and up to date, most of them are primitive and old. The business development of our country can be improved by designing and strongly implementing law relating to preservation of environment and consumer law. Preparing industry and investment friendly law and through strong implementation of laws for anti Corruption, anti Nepotism, anti tolling preparing law friendly to industry and investment, can also be ensure to develop our business and trade.

Technological Environment: For the development of business and trade, it is necessary to have efficient labor, high tech machineries and technology. It is evident that the countries that are highly developed in science and technology are also developed in business. Technological development makes the production process easier. As a result, both quantity and quality of production also increase. In Bangladesh, most of the elements of technological environment are positive. Use of technology is increasing gradually. in all sectors of Business.

Activity – 4: Give opinion about which of the environmental elements in your area are positive/negative for business
Climate/Weather
Electricity
Land
Gas
Rivers
Religious belief
Consumers perception
Communication system
Education and culture
Tradition
Banking facilities
Law and orders

In conclusion, we can say that it is necessary to develop the environmental elements influential for business and industry. We all have to come forward along with government to make a supportive and positive environment for industry and trade.

Entrepreneurship and Business Entrepreneurship

In Your school, the Victory Day on 16th December is celebrated every year by arranging some kind of functions. The Victory day of this year is almost near to us. One of you has proposed that this year a drama can be staged. He also said that he will give all kinds of help regarding the staging of the play. Staging a play is an arduous and creative job. In this case, selection of drama, characters, place and time was fixed after discussion. One of you came forward with the idea of staging a play, this is one kind of entrepreneurship. In general sense any kind of work effort initiative can be termed as entrepreneurship. So, entrepreneurship can be on anything

One more example can be given- a kind hearted person is setting up a school for creating educational opportunity for the boys and girls of your area. He established the school from his own savings and collecting funds from other people. This is the result of his strong determination and entrepreneurship. In this way, all kinds of work of public welfare like establishing school, college, hospital and club etc. are the results of some one's entrepreneurship.

Any kind of business is the outcome of the initiative of an individual or a group. Business entrepreneurship is identifying the business concept, establishing the business and operating it successfully. In particular, Business entrepreneurship means setting up business with a view to making profit knowing the inherited risk of loss and successfully operating the business.

Story of Aminul

Mr. Aminul islam used to think about doing something different from his boyhood. He attended his family business of clothing after completion of degree from a local college. But he could not be satisfied with this business. He used to visit the market by the highway near his house. One day he realized that very often the vehicles stop here for simple repairing. Realizing the necessity of repairing, Aminul formed capital from his own saving and some borrowings and established a workshop. Since he did not have the expertise in this job, he undertook three month training from the local Youth Development Center. Initially the earning from the business was not mentionable. But, because of hard working, efficient service and honesty, reputation of his business spread around and income started to increase as well. Having benefitted from this business, he is now planning to set up a petrol pump at the adjacent area.

Mr. Aminul has taken risk to fulfill his desire and worked hard with strong determination. These effort is his business entrepreneurship.

The person who knowing the uncertainties of results, establishes business with strong determination and courage and runs the business successfully, is a Business entrepreneur or Industry Entrepreneur. Business entrepreneurship and business entrepreneur; these two words are closely related to each other. Business entrepreneur is he who attempts business entrepreneurship. Henry Ford of American Ford Company, Konoke Matsusita founder of Japanese electronic manufacturing company Matsusita were world famous entrepreneur. In Bangladesh famous entrepreneurs are Mr. Jahurul Islam, Ranoda Prashad Saha, Janab Ali, Samson H. Chowdhury. In fact, the owner of every industry is an entrepreneur. Form the biographies of the entrepreneurs from home and abroad, it can be seen that most of them started business in a smaller scale. With the help of strong mind set, hard work, perseverance, and work effort gradually they became owner of large industries.

Difference between entrepreneurship and business entrepreneurship:

Entrepreneurship can be for anything. But, business entrepreneurship is the investment of money and labor to earn profit knowing the presence of risk. For example, suppose you can make beautiful things from bamboo and cane. You tried to make a new kind of cane chair, this is your entrepreneurship. If you collect money and start a shop for making things of bamboo and cane and successfully run the business then it will be business entrepreneurship. The primary objective of business entrepreneurship is profit making and other entrepreneurship is for public welfare.

Activity 1: Find out which one of the following is entrepreneurship & which one is business entrepreneurship

Capability of coping up with the change of environment and having influence on other people is also termed as special quality of an entrepreneur. They assess the risk, related to Business, carefully and take steps either to avoid or reduce that risk. Taking calculative risk is another characteristic of a successful entrepreneur. Making adjustment with the changed environment and desired goal is also a major characteristic of entrepreneurs.

Business risk is the uncertainties of earning profit form business. A successful, entrepreneur assesses the reasons of possible risk and their extent and takes preparation to face them beforehand. A successful entrepreneur has the quality of leadership. A successful entrepreneur accumulates capital, arranges financing for the organization and ensures their proper utilization in the business. He shows the efficiency in coordinating the general resources with the human resources of the company. He owns in deep knowledge of management. They have the up to date knowledge about coordinating with the technologies of ages. They innovate different production process and successfully implement them. They open new horizon for industrial revolution.

An entrepreneur enjoys dealing with challenging works. They provide untiring effort and sacrifice self comfort and luxury for achieving their business goal. They are so confident about their own decision that they continuously work to achieve their desired goal and keeps working until achieving the result. If they fail, they start again after analyzing the reason of their failure. Strong desire for achieving goal is a mentionable feature of their character. Real entrepreneur acknowledge their fault and take lessons from them. Learning from own experiences and experience of others, and application of those learning in work place is another special quality of their character. Successful entrepreneurs get satisfaction and pleasure from their success.

Importance of Business Entrepreneurship in Socio-Economic Development

Bangladesh is a developing Country. According to Bangladesh Economic Review-2010, 50% of our national income comes from service, 20% comes from agriculture and 30% comes from industry. Industrial sector plays a vital role in the development of any country. The development of all the sectors including industrial sector is possible through development of business entrepreneurship. Business entrepreneurship can contribute to our socio economic development in the following way:

- Proper utilization of resources

Business entrepreneurship ensures the uses of natural resources and human resources of our country. Besides, increase of investment and proper utilization of resources are possible through establishing new industry.

- Increase of national Income and Production

The national income increases through business entrepreneurship. As a result attaining government's target for national income becomes possible.

- New employment generation

Entrepreneurs establish industry, operate and expand it along with government. As a result new employment generation becomes possible which plays a vital role to remove unemployment problem.

- Development of Efficient Human Resources

Bangladesh is a populous country. This large population can become our asset. Because, a successful entrepreneur turns the inefficient people to efficient through engaging them in productive works.

- Reduces Dependence on others

We can reduce dependence on others through business entrepreneurship. We can become economically self sufficient with proper utilization of business entrepreneurship.

Favorable Environment for Developing Business Entrepreneurship

If we look at the developed countries, then we will see that the main reason for their advancement is the positive environment for establishing business, operation and expansion. In our country we do not have deficiency in brilliance, mentality and efficiency. Our advancement is hindered only for the lack of positive environment. The following positive environment aspects are necessary for development of business entrepreneurship:

- Developed Infrastructural Element

There are some necessary elements for operating business such as electricity, gas, communication etc. These elements are necessary for existence of positive environment for business entrepreneurship.

- Government Assistance

With the help of Government, business entrepreneurship, of the country can grow more rapidly and be enriched. Various government decisions like tax rebate, supplying capital with little or without interest, etc. can make a positive environment for business entrepreneurship.

- Socio-Economic Stability

Economic, Social and Political stability has a positive impact over creating positive business environment. But Economic, Social and Political instability create a negative impact on business entrepreneurship.

- Supportive Law and Order Situation

Establishment and operation of business is easier, if the law and order situation of the country is positive. On the other hand negative law and order situation is a threat to business entrepreneurship and business operation.

- Arrangement of Sufficient Capital

To successfully implement any kind of business entrepreneurship, sufficient capital is necessary. Due to the deficiency of capital, establishment and operation of business is not possible in most cases. In this regard, banking system of the country needs to be developed so that supply of capital to the new entrepreneurs is ensured.

- Opportunity of Training

Some times correct steps can not be taken though opportunity prevails only because of lack of training. Through training positive environment for business can be created.

Relationship between Entrepreneurship & Risk

Ms. Ishta Akter, the owner of Ishta Fashion House at Rapa Plaza in Dhaka is a successful entrepreneur. She helps her family and buys all the necessities with the income from this business. Mainly, she started this business as a hobby, but now she earns mentionable amount from the business. But, she realized that more profit can be earned from the business of mobile phone considering its demand. Her family members warned her that this business will be risky since she has no knowledge of the business. But, without paying any heed to these concerns of her family members, she took a bank loan. Besides, she took some money from her running business and decided on importing mobile phones from abroad.

Picture: Buying and selling in a shop

On the other hand her competitors imported mobiles at lower price. As a result she incurred huge loss. The main reason for such a failure was that she started the business without considering the risk associated with it.

There is always a relation that exists between business entrepreneurship and risk. In some business, there is less risk and in some cases risk is high. Business associated with high risks has higher possibility of profit as well. And the business having a lower risk has low return. For example, we can say that groceries have less risk, thus profit is also limited. On the other hand like the above mentioned case study if there is probability of high profit, there is also higher risk associated.

There are various types risk in business. The demand of a product or service can decline at any time. Profit can be reduced for that reason. This possibility is business risk. On the other hand it may happen that the businessman expected a certain profit from the business, but in reality he earned less profit. This is called monetary risk.

Establishing a business and running it properly is a risky job. Besides, with the help of business entrepreneurship earning more is also possible through investing in profitable ventures. But one has to keep in mind that a successful entrepreneur always assesses the associated risk beforehand and tries to reduce that and always takes tolerable risk. Excessive risk and over confidence may turn any plan into a disappointment.

Obstacles to Entrepreneurship Development in Bangladesh

Prevailing environment in Bangladesh for development of business entrepreneurship is not positive in all sectors. Because of some obstacles, business entrepreneurship development cannot reach to the optimum level in our country. The obstacles for business entrepreneurship development in Bangladesh are discussed below:

- Lack of Proper Planning: For entrepreneurship development disciplined planning that can be achieved gradually is needed. Though it is a matter of regret that in our country there is huge lack of such good planning.
- More Interest towards Job: People of our country are dependent on agriculture from ancient time. As a result we have less interest in industry and business. Traditional education system in our country make people more interested towards employment. For entrepreneurship development it is one of main obstacles.

- Lack of Technical and Vocational Education: General education system in our country is based on memorization and theory. For a long time this system has been continuing. Though there is separate technical and vocational education system, meritorious students are not interested in this. On the other hand, in general education there is no inclusion of technical and vocational education and the student fails to get a good idea about this. As result, habit does not grow for business entrepreneurship.
- Lack of Campaign: To implement any step, campaign plays a significant role. Lack of campaign for various private and public steps regarding business entrepreneurship development, lots of meritorious students from towns and villages, unemployed people remain ignorant about it. As a result, business entrepreneurship development activities remain unsuccessful.
- Lack of Financing Arrangement: There are many people who are interested in entrepreneurship but due to lack of sufficient capital and money they cannot step forward. Lack of sufficient fund arrangement is another important obstacle for entrepreneurship development.
- Lack of Training: Being an entrepreneur though is a by born quality, it is possible to make entrepreneur through proper training as well. But, in our country there is lack of training institutions for entrepreneurship development.
- Political Instability: Political instability is a major obstacle for the economic development and growth of any country. Because of political instability, law and order situation in the country deteriorates and business activities get obstructed. As a result, potential entrepreneurs mislay their interest for doing something new.

Ways to Overcome the Obstacles of Entrepreneurship Development in Bangladesh

In Bangladesh obstacles prevailing against development of business entrepreneurship can be removed by adopting the following steps:

- Effective and Realistic plans to be taken on
- Huge training activities to be implemented
- Massive campaign to be arranged all over the country

- Technical and Vocational education system to be expanded.
- Entrepreneurs are to be provided with investment advice.
- Supply of required capital to be arranged.
- Business Entrepreneurship subject is to be included in the secondary and higher secondary level on a large scale.
- Political stability needs to be ensured

If the above noted issues are ensured with certainty, in that case, hopefully the door of entrepreneurship development will open to a significant level.

CHAPTER THREE

Self-employment

Bangladesh is a developing country. According to Population Census and House Counting - 2011, estimated population of the country on 16th July, 2012 is 15 crore 25 lac 18 thousand 15. 80% of this total population lives in village. As per Economic Review 2011, contribution of agriculture in the national economy is 20%, Industrial Sector contributes 30% and service sector contributes 50%. But, the unemployment problem in the country is increasing day by day because of high birth rate, under developed economy and less employment opportunity in comparison to high demand. Bureau of Statistics Report 2010 states that Bangladesh has 26 lac unemployed people. Number of total eligible worker in the country is 5 crore 67 lac. Young people comprise one third of this total eligible worker. This large number of work eligible unemployed population cannot be engaged in salaried job. Self-employment is necessary. We will learn about the various nature of Self-employment in this chapter.

After completing this chapter, we shall be able to

- Explain the concept of Self-employment
- Explain the relation between Self-employment and entrepreneurship
- Explain the necessity of training for Self-employment
- Select the suitable and profitable sectors for Self-employment considering the socio economic condition of Bangladesh.
- Describe the activities and importance of training institutions for Self-employment.
- Describe the ways for motivating Self-employment

Concept of Self-employment

Hafizur of Bhandaria-an example of defeating poverty through cultivation of bitter gourd.

After completing SSC, Mr. Hafizur Rahman started working in a ship. Low grade job but involves a lot of hard work. But, wage is very poor. He could hardly maintain his family. He was forced to resign from his job in the ship and come back to his village. He failed to join a pharmaceutical company after trying hard. He could not manage it since he did not have the BA pass certificate. But, industrious Hafizur was not demoralized. He started to think about doing something on the bare land beside his house. Having advice from the Upazila Agricultural Officer, he started growing Bitter Gourd (Korola) in that bare land. Now, he grows seven mound of Bitter Gourd per week. He is now solvent in maintaining a family of six members from the income from selling Bitter Gourd. Educated farmer Hafizur of village Matibhanga of Bhandaria Upazila at Pirojpur District has removed unemployment and has become self sufficient by growing Bitter Gourd and other vegetables. He has won against poverty.

Hafizur informed that he has cultivated vegetables in two acres of land. He has grown Hybrid Tia type of Bitter Gourd in half of this land. In rest of the land he has grown Indian Spinach (Pui Shak), String bean (Borboti), Wax Gourd (Kumra), Brinjal (Begoon), Snake Gourd (Chichinga), and Okra (Dherosh). He sells the Bitter Gourd to the local wholesaler at a rate of Taka 30 per kg. Wholesalers come to his land to buy the Bitter Gourd. He is hopeful to earn nearly Taka three lac this year. But, he spent fifty five thousand taka for growing this Bitter Gourd. Since, Hafizur is a motivated farmer, he has become successful. Mr. Narayan Chandra Majumder from the agricultural office says in this regard that many people have been motivated to grow vegetables seeing the success of Hafizur. This is a matter of inspiration for any unemployed youth.

The way Mr. Hafizur Rahman has managed to be employed by himself is called Self-employment. Now, we can understand that Self-employment is the process of earning a living by self-effort through using own capital or borrowed fund, own thinking, knowledge, intelligence and efficiency and taking minimum risk. Self-employment is a popular profession among various techniques for earning a living. Various retailing, repairing, radio and television, poultry farming, AP culture etc. are included in Self-employment.

Relationship between business entrepreneur and Self-employment is very close. In case of Self-employment, an individual starts working after thinking about the job. A Self-employed person becomes an entrepreneur, when he thinks about the employment of other people in the society along with his own employment and steps forward against risk and forms an organization. In that case all the entrepreneurs can be called Self-employed but all the Self-employed persons are not entrepreneur.

Necessity of Self-employment

Sanjida Islam from Noakhali failed to manage a job after completing her honors degree from the local college. After remaining unemployed for a period, she decided to undertake training on horticulture from the local Youth Development Office. After completion of the training she grew flower in one acre of land. During the first season she earned fifty thousand taka. She became severely interested gaining the profit. Then, she went to Dhaka to join a daylong workshop on growing flower and visited a Flower Fair (Pushpo Mela). She collected seeds of various local and foreign flowers from the flower fair and earned a lot of money from growing them. Because of hard work and proper utilization of opportunity her business grew very large within five years. Recently, she received the Best Women Entrepreneur Award from her district. While receiving the award she spoke about the following necessities of Self-employment to the present mass:

- Employment can be divided into three groups - Wages or Salary based Self-employment and Business.
- Public and private organizations are the main source for employment.
- The number of work eligible people increases. with increase of population. Employment opportunity does not increase comparing to the rate of demand for employment.
- In other profession earning opportunity is limited. But, in case of Self-employment, earning at the beginning is low and uncertain and possibility of earning afterwards in this profession is unlimited.
- At present, opportunity for self-employment has vastly increased. Social status for self employed people has increased comparing to the previous time.
- The major capital for self employment is self efficiency. It is comparatively easier to arrange capital required for raw materials and machineries.
- Self-employment is an independent profession. Since, one can do this from ones own home and land, extra cost can be avoided.
- The youth of the country engaged in self-employment can contribute to the development of the country rather engaging in anti social works.
- Wages in Bangladesh is very poor because of large population. More over, in our country seasonal unemployment problem is acute. To solve such problems, self-employment can contribute significantly.
- Through self employment migration to towns can be controlled and development of village society and economy can be ensured.
- The self employment mentality motivates the youth for patriotism and encourages willful works.
- Age is never a burden for self employment. A person of any age can earn through self employment as per his/her efficiency level.

Process of aiming before self-employed profession

Before selecting self-employment as a profession, one should properly specify his/her goal. To set the objectives, following question is necessary to be answered:

What is your long term goal? How do you want to achieve this?
In what specific date you want to achieve this?
What is your short term goal?
Why is short term goal important?
Have you taken any steps to achieve that?
What obstacles can rise against achieving the goal?
How to overcome those obstacles?
What is your plan to solve problems?
What are the helps/supports necessary to solve the problem?
Whom will you select as the helper?

The correct goal can be identified within finding the answer of the questions.

Factors to be Considered for Selecting Suitable Field for Self-employment

The success or failure of a self-employed business depends largely on selecting a suitable field for self-employment. Thus, selecting the suitable field for self-employment, the following issues need to be considered:

- Selecting the Right Goods

Selecting the appropriate goods for business is the pre-requisites for getting success. Before selecting the product, demand and acceptability of the product in the market should be properly justified.

- Initial Capital Utilizing

To run the business successfully, it is necessary to arrange sufficient fixed and working capital. Utilizing the maximum capacity of the business is not possible if one fails to assess and arrange necessary capital. For lack of working capital many industries in Bangladesh cannot run to their maximum capacity.

- Assessing the Demand for Goods

The perfect measurement of demand for goods through market research and other techniques is one of the major preconditions for success of business. Besides, market size and marketing strategies must be assessed beforehand.

- Experience and Education

The past experience in business and proper education regarding management is helpful towards success of business. Research shows that in most of the cases the reason for failure in business is having no prior experience or knowledge about management strategies.

- Awareness about Self Weakness

Troubles in business can be avoided if the entrepreneur is alert and aware of his/her strength and weakness.

- Joint Effort

Family support and joint effort is a significant element to achieve success in business. Joint ventures are more successful.

- Selecting Right Worker

The worker to be employed in business must be qualified and efficient in their own job. So, in case of recruiting worker, their academic qualification, professional efficiency, trust worthiness must be justified on the 'basis of a yardstick. There should be an arrangement for training for the employed workers. The employee should not be recruited for emotional reasons.

- Selecting the Place of Business

To select the place for a business, raw materials availability, marketing opportunity, infrastructural facility etc. should be considered specially.

- Uses of Right Technology

The use of right technology in the production process and combination of local and imported technology increases the possibility of success. The entrepreneurs should provide special emphasis on this before starting a business.

- To be Aware of the Socio-economic and Political Condition of the Country

The economic condition influences the success of a business. Small entrepreneurs have to assess the existing socio-economic condition of the country and have to take business decision on the basis of the assessment continuously. More over, entrepreneur should always be aware of the influencing elements of business to become successful in business.

- To Find Ways to Face Business Risk

Business can be protected from uncertain risk if the business related risk is assessed before hand. Thus, assessing the business risk with a suitable method and face those risk with a predefined way, are the pre-conditions for success in business.

- Take Lessons from Failure

One should not get frustrated for failure in a business rather he/she must analyze the reasons meticulously and start in a new way. The success of business lies within learning from the previous business failure and execution of the learning.

- Proper Business Planning

Proper business planning is another important issue to be successful in business. Planning is thinking and specification of how, what and when to do things before starting the business. Planning is the guiding paper for operating the business. The richer the planning the more will be the possibility of success in business.

Activity-4: Now, try to match with your selection of self-employment areas and the above mentioned issues. Considering these issues, select any five from your selected ten areas and give reasons:

Ways to Motivate for Self-employment

For self-employment it is necessary to have personal efficiency and strong willingness to earn a living on the basis of a self dependent profession. Self employment is the only alternative since job opportunity is limited and employments can not be generated through private and public initiative. in huge number. Concept of self-employment is not clear and sufficient to the youth of this country. On the other hand, we think job is the only way of earning a living because of our social value and bookish knowledge. As a result, the number of both educated and illiterate unemployed people is increasing day by day. To motivate the youth and the future generation for self-employment necessary steps have to be taken, such as-

- Students should be taught that no work is small or disrespectful
- Students to be lectured on the biography of successful self-employed persons of the locality.
- List of suitable areas for self-employment to be advertized over schools and union porished.
- The students who are dropped out or can not come to school regularly, should be trained in a suitable area and arrangement should be made for lending money to them.
- Sufficient vocational, technical and work oriented subject needs to be included in the secondary and higher secondary level.
- Youth development bank and education bank needs to be established for lending money to unemployed people for self-employment.
- Ex students of the school who are now successful entrepreneur and business man, they should be invited for giving reception on their success.

Necessity of Training in Self-employment

Training is necessary for completing a special job and enhancement of knowledge and efficiency. Training increases work efficiency and competency. Training should be arranged in small organization to increase the efficiency level of the worker like the large organization. It is not necessary to recruit from outside if the existing workers have proper training and the business farm has proper recruitment policy. Training is a continuous and regular effort to enhance the knowledge and efficiency of workers so that their competency increases gradually and the organization is benefited Training should be arranged for a worker before assigning him/her to any job. Training is necessary for old and new worker of the organization including the entrepreneur. Necessity of training is explained below:

- Introduction to Nature of work and Environment

It is necessary for the newly appointed staffs to be introduced with the working environment and nature of work of the organization. Training process helps the new workers to get introduced with the work environment.

- Removes the lacking of Efficient and Experienced Worker

It is not possible for the organization to recruit experienced and educated worker all the time. For this reason, after recruitment this necessity is fulfilled by training the new workers. In this way the lack of efficient and experienced workers of the institute is removed.

- Increase the Efficiency of the Worker

Training increases the work efficiency of the worker. For this, training is necessary for the new worker as well as old workers in the organization. In this way demand of Skilled and experienced workers can be met in the organisations.

- Proper Utilization of Resources

Training develops the efficiency of the entrepreneur and workers. As a result better use of machineries, furniture and fixtures and other assets are possible by the entrepreneur and workers.

- Enhancement of Moral Strength

Training enhances the morality of the entrepreneur and workers. As a result moral strength increases. Training brings cooperation and coordination among workers. For this, activities of the organization run with optimum level of pace.

- Minimize Wastage and Accident

Trained worker can perform any job with higher efficiency and low cost. As a result wastage is reduced in the working process in the organization. Training gives the worker knowledge of security related various techniques and it helps to avoid accidents of using machineries and other factors.

At last, it can be said that the necessity for training is immense for the development of work through efficiency and competency of the worker to maintain the activities of the organization properly. Without proper training, satisfactory work can not be expected from Staffs/worker, whether old or new. So, making the worker efficient through training is a must for doing their job for an organization.

Training Institutes for Helping Self-employment

Society or country with large number of entrepreneur is more developed. In Bangladesh, there are some institutions for supporting self-employment. These institutions create opportunity of earning for the destitute people through motivating landless and 'poor to self-employment, providing training for efficiency enhancement, arranging micro credit to set up small business, and monitoring of uses of the borrowed fund etc. Among the institutions Bangladesh Institute of Bank Management, Ministry of Women Affairs, Bangladesh Rural Development Board, Employment Generation Project of Rural Women, Youth Training Center, Notrams etc. are mentionable. The activities of these organizations are mentioned below:

Different Types of Business on the Basis of Ownership

Different types of business have been formed on the basis of ownership and of various features to meet up different demands of the people over the decades. Though, there is similarity in the objective of earning profit, there are some differences on the basis of nature, feature, area, size and activity among various types of business organization. On the basis of ownership business can be classified as the following categories:

- 1) Sole Proprietorship Business
- 2) Partnership Business
- 3) Joint Stock Company
- 4) Cooperative Society
- 5) State Enterprises

Concept of Sole Proprietorship Business

Sole proprietorship is the business formed, operated and controlled by single person. Business in this world started at first on sole ownership. For this reason, this is called the most ancient business firm. Considering the present scenario, we can say that when a single person out of his own responsibility arranges capital and forms and run business with the objective to make profit and singly shoulders the profit or loss of the company it is called a Sole Proprietorship Business. Formation of sole proprietorship business is very easy. Any individual can start this type of business with small sum of money of his/her own initiative. Generally, size of this sort of company is small. But, the owner can employ more than one personnel and engage more capital if necessary. There is not so much limitations for sole proprietorship business under the law. Anybody can start the business at any place whether it is in the village market, hat-bazar, road side or in one's own house. But, in cities and towns the entrepreneur has to collect trade license before starting business. Most of the business organizations in our country are formed as sole proprietorship. Not only this, 80% of the business is based on sole proprietorship in Europe and America. Generally, in our country, the groceries, tea stall, vegetable shop and most of the retail shops are formed as sole proprietorship firm.

Characteristics of Sole Proprietorship Business

Sole Proprietorship Business is such type of business where entrepreneur, owner, operator and supplier of fund is the same person and he/she singly bears the risk, liabilities, profit and loss of the business/company. The characteristics of sole proprietorship firm are mentioned below:

- The owner is a single person in sole proprietorship firm who arranges to supply the capital, operates the business and bears the risk.
- Formation of this kind of business is very easy. Since, there is no legal complexity, any one can form this if he/she wants.
- This sort of business can be formed with less capital. The owner himself supplies the capital. Generally, own savings, if necessary he/she can borrow from friends, relatives and Banks and operate business.
- In most of the cases, sole proprietorship is of small size. Because of less capital and ownership of a single person, the size of the business is small.
- In a sole proprietorship firm, the owner has to bear all the risk of the business.
- Sole proprietorship firm does not have a legal entity. Owner and the business are same.
- The owner bears all the responsibilities in this business. Thus, his liability is unlimited. If necessary, one may need to sell personal property to meet up the business liability.
- Because of the single ownership of the whole business, the owner enjoys the whole share of profit. On the other hand, he has to bear all the loss singly.
- The permanence of sole proprietorship business depends upon the willingness of the owner. Because, to run the business or to close the business solely depends upon the willingness of the owner.

Suitable Areas of Sole Proprietorship Business

Sole proprietorship business has been acknowledged among the under developed, developing and developed countries of the world as the most ancient form of business. Though it is the oldest business, it is still popular and has survived the competition with large scale businesses. Sole proprietorship business is popular to all because of its features and advantages. Suitable areas of sole proprietorship business are depicted below:

1. There are many people who want to start a business but can not do so because of not having sufficient fund in hand. Sole proprietorship is suitable for the thousands of people interested in self-employment. Such as tea stall, small food shop, cottage industry, pottery shop etc.
2. There are some businesses which do not require much capital. Those businesses are considered more appropriate for sole proprietorship Like Betel Shop, Vegetable Shop.
3. The business having very low risk is suitable for sole proprietorship. Because, low income people want to avoid risk, thus they like this sort of business. Such as Rice shop, pharmacy etc.
4. There are some businesses which provide goods and services with demands stipulated to a particular region or particular group of customer. Sole proprietorship business is more suitable for that kind of business. Like library in front of school, restaurant in front of a industrial factory.
5. Sole proprietorship business is formed for the business of perishable goods such as fruits, vegetables, fish, meat etc.
6. Profession based business like Doctors, Architecture and lawyers and direct service based business like Laundry, Saloon, Beauty Parlor, etc. are formed as sole proprietorship business.
7. There are some business which depend on the changed taste, interest and fashion of the customer. Sole proprietorship business is more suitable for this kind of business. Such as tailoring.
8. Sole proprietorship business is suitable for business of goods and services involved with individual efficiency, art and fame. Such as painting, photography, jewelry, furniture and sweet shop.
9. Sole proprietorship business is also suitable for agro based accessory products. Such as trading of paddy, potato and other raw materials.

10. For publication of books, papers and news papers at local and national level, business of sole proprietorship is more suitable

From the above analysis it is understood that sole proprietorship business can be started at any time and at any place with individual initiative, independent mentality and investment of less capital and labor. This business is free from legal complexity and risk is also a lesser amount. On the other hand, sole proprietorship business can supply with goods and services from staying very close to the consumers. As a result, though the business is the oldest one, it has vast scope and popularity. In context of Bangladesh, considering the economic, social, political and cultural condition, sole proprietorship business is the most appropriate type of business. For which eighty percent of the business in Bangladesh is formed based on sole proprietorship. So, it is necessary to make the process of getting loan and other government assistance easier to eliminate the prevailing unemployment in the country and creation of new job opportunity by motivating the youth of the society to form sole proprietorship business.

Concept of Partnership Business

Because of all the stipulations of less capital, unlimited liability and narrow scope of sole proprietorship business, despite being the oldest and popular business form it became necessary to establish business enterprises on partnership basis with widening scope and reducing risk. For this, more than one individual come together combine their capital and capacity and form a new type of business which is called partnership business. Mainly, partnership business evolved to eliminate the deficiency of sole proprietorship business. But, this business also has some problems. Dispute and distrust may rise among partners specially, for distribution of profit, decision making, division of tasks and responsibilities, determining partners' relations to each other. As a result, deed of partnership and partnership act had to be introduced. In Bangladesh, partnership business is operated under the Partnership Act 1932. Generally, when more than one individual willingly comes together to form business on the basis of partnership deed it is called partnership business. As per Partnership Act 1932, 'more than one individual' means minimum two and maximum twenty partners. If the partnership is for banking business, then maximum number of partners should not be more than ten. According to the section 4 of the Partnership Act 1932 in Bangladesh, Partnership business is the relation between individuals based on a deed with a view to sharing profit of a business operated by all or by one on behalf of all. Those who build this type of relation is called "partner" and altogether their business is called partnership business.

Formation of Partnership Business

We have known that, Partnership business is one type of business with a relationship between individuals based on an agreement where the business is operated by all or by one on behalf of all. Formation of partnership business is very easy like sole proprietorship business. There is no legal complexity in its formation. At least two eligible persons entering into contract can start the business. But there is no hard and fast rules that the agreement is to be written. The existing partnership law of 1932 in Bangladesh did not make agreement and registration mandatory. So, the business can be operated by oral agreement. But to avoid legal procedures, contradiction, unreliability and mistrust among the partners, the agreement needs to be written and registered. For this reason, the agreement is treated as the main basis of partnership business. It is necessary to collect a trade license from city corporation or municipality to start a partnership business within existing rules of our country.

Characteristics of Partnership Business

In the present context, partnership business is as old as the sole proprietorship business. But, partnership business has evolved to eliminate some limitations of sole proprietorship business. Though, it has some similarities with sole proprietorship business in nature, partnership business has some characteristics which has made it different from sole proprietorship and other form of joint ownership business. The characteristics of partnership business are analyzed below:

1. Formation of Partnership Business is very easy since there is no legal complexity. More than one individual eligible to enter into contract can start the business with an oral or written agreement. More than one individual means minimum two and maximum twenty people. For banking business the maximum number of member is ten.
2. The agreement between the partners works as the basis for the partnership business. This business is formed, operated and controlled on the basis of relation based on agreement. The agreement can either be oral or written, registered or unregistered.
3. The partners in the business supply their fund according to the agreement. Profit as well as loss of business is also distributed according to the agreement. Profit as well as loss is distributed equally if there is no other indication in the agreement. Some body may even become partner without any investment if it is mentioned in the agreement. But, the liabilities of the partners are unlimited by jointly and individually. This means, if the asset of the company is not sufficient to meet up a particular liability then the personal property of the partners shall be liable for this. If any partner becomes bankrupt, then other partners shall be liable to bear his portion of liability.
4. The business is formed on the basis of reliability and trust on each other and the success of the business is also dependent on this. On the other hand, partnership business gets dissolved, if there is any unreliability, mistrust and argument among the partners.
5. Registration of partnership firm is not mandatory. But, the registered company enjoys some facility over the unregistered companies. Registration does not make it a legal entity. So, the business can not be run on its own name. It is considered that all the business transactions have been made personally on behalf of the partners. The existence of this business depends upon the willingness of partners since it has no legal entity.

Deed of Partnership Business

Partnership Business is formed with an agreement between two or more people. The agreement can be oral. Or the agreement can be written and registered. It is mandatory to have an agreement to start a partnership business, it does not matter whether the agreement is oral, written, registered or unregistered. For this reason agreement is treated as the main basis for partnership business. As per statement from Partnership Act -1932, 'Partnership relation is built from agreement, not from statuses. Written agreement is called Partnership Deed. Partnership deed is such evidence that describes the objective of the business, operational guideline, position of each partner, responsibilities, activities and right and specific method to solve potential problem in future. The agreement is to be signed by all the partners. This is to be kept in mind that business conducted to make and distribute profit shall not be considered as partnership business if there is no such agreement. If the children of a deceased person become the heir and they operate the business and share the profit among them, then it will not be a partnership business since there is no agreement with the children.

Contents of the Deed of Partnership Business

Deed of agreement is treated as the guideline of partnership business. Various important issues are incorporated in the deed to avoid the contradiction among partners and let alone complexities in operational procedure of the business. Generally the following issues are stated in the deed of agreement:

1. Name and address of the partnership business.
2. Nature, objective and scope of business
3. Expiration or validity of the business
4. Name, address and profession of the partners,
5. Total capital of the firm
6. Capital to be paid by each partner and payment method
7. Rules to run the business
8. Introduction of the partners who will directly run the business
9. Profit and Loss distribution method
10. Responsibilities, power and rights of the partners
11. Name of the bank, Address and nature of account to be opened.

12. Name of the partners to operate the Bank account
13. Guideline to include new partner and exclusion of existing partner.
14. Estimation, reservation and repayment method for share in case of death of a partner
15. Retirement and dismissal process of partner
16. Solution method for future contradiction
17. Method of dissolution of partnership

Registration of partnership Business

Registration of partnership business refers to enlistment of the name of company with the government appointed office of the registrar. Registration of partnership business in Bangladesh is not mandatory as per Partnership Act of 1932. But the registered companies enjoy some additional benefits over the unregistered partnership business. In a registered partnership business the partner can sue against other partner for his rights as per partnership deed which is not possible in case of an unregistered firm. Unregistered companies cannot take any legal measures against any third party as well for the rights as in the deed of agreement. On the other hand, if any third party sues any unregistered partnership firm or against its partners, it cannot claim any receivables against the plaintiff only for being unregistered. Besides, unregistered partnership firm cannot sue against any third party to claim taka more than hundred. So it is more logical to register a partnership firm since it can enjoy the benefit of some additional facility. The following things are to be attached with the application for registration of a partnership business:

- Name of the partnership business
- Address of the head office
- Address of the branches (if any)
- Objective of the business
- Date of business commencement
- Expiry or validity of the business
- Partners name, address and profession
- Date of joining as a partner in the business

The registrar will check all the paper submitted along with the application having been signed by all partners for registration. If the registrar is satisfied, he will enlist the company and inform the company in written. The registration process ends with receipt of the letter.

Classification of Partners

The partners in a partnership firm can select their role in a business considering the various conditions of the business, advantages and disadvantages, duties and responsibilities. The concepts and characteristics of different types of partners are mentioned below:

Different Types of Partners	Concept & Characteristics
Ordinary Partner	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Partners invest capital in the business and actively participate in the operational activities of the business • Partners have unlimited liabilities • Equally share the profit and loss as per deed of agreement • Gets remuneration if mentioned in the agreement
Sleeping Partner	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Partners invest capital into the business • Share the profit as per agreement • Does not participate actively in the operational activities of the firm having rights though. • Sleeping partner has limited liabilities • Is not liable to any third party for the activities of the business
Nominal Partner	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Does not invest capital into the business • Does not participate in the business operational activities • Allows to use name/goodwill against profit sharing or in return of particular amount of money as per deed of agreement. • Nominal Partners do not have unlimited liabilities like the ordinary partners • But, if any body lends money considering him as a partner and is able to prove it, then the partner shall be equally liable like others.

Quasi Partner	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • This type of partner does not withdraw the money invested as capital and retains in the business as a loan • In fact, this sort of partners are the creditors to the business • If, any ordinary partner remains in the business in such a way without publishing notice, then he/she will be liable to the third party for the activities of the business.
Limited Partner	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • If liability of a partner is limited as per deed of agreement or if any minor is taken as partner legitimately to facilitate him with the consent of other partner he/she is called a limited partner. • The liability of such partner is limited to the amount of invested capital. • Does not take part in the business operation • Any minor person can also be such partner on the basis of deed of agreement.
Partner by Holding Out	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • When any person introduces himself as the partner of a business verbally, written or in any other manner though he is not a partner, he is called partner by holding out. • If, any body being influenced by his attitude; lends money to the business, then such partner shall be liable.

Dissolution of Partnership Business

Partnership business is formed for a particular time period or to complete a specific task. As per Partnership Act 1932, Section 39, dissolution of the relationship among the partner is the dissolution of the partnership business. According to the partnership act dissolution of the partnership business can be done in many ways:

1. Dissolution by mutual consent: According to Section 40 of Partnership Act, all the partners of the firm can mutually dissolve the business.
2. Forced Dissolution: According to Section 41 of Partnership Act, because of the following two reasons forced dissolution can happen:
 - a) All but one or one of the partners become bankrupt or
 - b) If the business becomes anti legal or illegal for any reason.
3. Eventual Dissolution: According to Section 42 of Partnership Act, dissolution can happen due to any of the following reasons mentioned in the partnership agreement.
 - a) If specific time span of the business ends
 - b) If the specific task for which the business started is finished
 - c) In case of death of any partner
 - d) If any partner is declared bankrupt by the court

4. Dissolution through Notice: Section 43 of the Partnership Act states that Partnership business can be dissolved through the notice by any partner of his desire to quit the business.

5. Dissolution by the Order form the Court: Section 44 of the Partnership Act states that for any of the following reasons partnership firm can be dissolved:

- a) if any partner becomes insane,
- b) If a partner becomes incapable forever,
- c) If the trust and faith among the partners are affected by the misdeeds of any partner;
- d) If any partner transfers his share to any third party by violating the terms and condition of the partnership deed.
- e) If the business is incurring continuous loss and if it seems impossible to run the business without incurring loss.

The court may order for dissolution of a partnership firm for other logical reasons.

Concept of Joint Stock Companies

The institutional journey of business did not remain stipulated in this world which started through formation of Sole Proprietorship business. Partnership firm evolved to remove some limitations especially short of capital and single operation, and smaller size of sole proprietorship business. But, the partnership business could not free itself from the limitation of low capital, law, existence; liability etc. In this way demand of customer and business scope increase rapidly. As a result, on a legal basis company is formed with more capital and larger in size which is called joint stock business or company or organization. In fact, the changes in the production process because of industrial revolution brought vast changes in the organizational nature and scope of business. Production and distribution system placed itself in factory coming out from the periphery of family boundary. As a result, Joint Stock Company was born with more capital, limited liability, joint management and legal entity and separate identity. It is mentionable here that Industrial Revolution is the technological changes in agriculture, factories, and coal mining and transportation system in Europe during the mid eighteenth and nineteenth century.

Joint Stock Company is created and operated under the law. The first company act was passed in Britain in 1844 which was known as "The Joint Stock Company Act 1844". In the subcontinent of British ruled India first company act was passed on 1850. In 1913, the Indian company act was again passed. In independent Bangladesh the company act of 1913 was followed for long time. The new company act in Bangladesh was introduced in 1994 with lots of changes and corrections. At present in Bangladesh all the joint stock business is running under the company act 1994. According to Company Act 1994, company means-company formed and registered under the law or any existing company. Actually, company is such an organization which is created under the law, having separate legal existence, separate legal entity and limited liabilities for the owner and where several people jointly invest money to earn profit.

Features of Joint Stock Company

At present in the era of large scale business, the significance of this type of business is inexplicable. This type of business possesses some features which has given it separate status than all other type of business. The features of joint stock company are described below:

1. Joint Stock Company is legally formed. This business is formed under the prevailing law of the state. Since, it is formed legally; its formation is complex and formal. Number of its member is limited by law. In case of private limited company the number of members is minimum two and maximum 50 and for public limited company the minimum number of members is seven and the maximum is limited by the number of shares.

2. Joint Stock Business is an enthusiastic organization. Several people willingly come together to form and operate company business. Any member can leave the business easily through transfer of his share. And any one can become a member through buying its share.
3. Since, it is legally formed, it has legal personality. Legal personality means enjoying legal status and rights like a person being a nonperson entity. Company independently can enter in to contract, do transactions and can take legal action if necessary. Other party also has the right to go to court against the company.
4. Since, company is formed legally; its dissolution must be done under formal legal system. In this way it owns the status of continued existence. The company does not dissolve with the death of any share holder, bankruptcy or transfer of share.
5. The company has to use a seal of its own name because it is a legal personality. Use of this seal is mandatory for all the operations and papers and documents of the company.
6. The total capital of the company is divided legally in to several small portions. Each of the unit is called a share. Company accumulates capital by selling the share. For this reason, it is called share capital. Any person aged more than eighteen or any institution can become a member by buying its shares. Because of more member and the opportunities to collect capital by selling share, it can arrange huge capital.
7. Management is totally separate from the ownership in company business. The owners of company business do not take part in the operational activities directly like the sole proprietorship firm or a partnership firm. Management responsibility is mentained by another group of salaried people. The directors or owners only take part in the policy level of works
8. The liability of the member of the company is limited. It is not unlimited like the sole proprietorship business or partnership business. Member's liability is limited by the share value or commitment. Limited by share means a person shall be liable for the amount of share he/she has purchased. For example, if a person buys 100 share of Tk.100.00 each; in that case his liability shall be limited to Tk. 10,000.00. On the other hand, limited by commitment means the amount of share is committed to be purchased by a person and he/she will be liable up to his/her commitment

9. In operation and management of company business, democratic culture and values are followed. Share holders elect the board of directors through direct vote and the business is run by the decisions of the board of directors.

Classification of Joint Stock Company

Various changes of the socio-economic condition of the world society and the developmental touch influence the business world. As a result, large scale of business in the form of joint stock companies evolved to surpass the limitations of sole proprietorship and partnership business. Limited company is well known among all the business of joint ownership. In Bangladesh, limited companies are mainly divided in to two categories: a) Private Limited Company; and b) Public Limited Company

a) Private Limited Company

The company in which number of share holders are limited to minimum two and maximum fifty and where the shares are not easily transferable is called Private Limited Company. In Company Act 1994 in Bangladesh states that, "Private Limited company is one which, by its articles, restricts the right of the members to transfer their shares, limits the number of its members to fifty, prohibits any invitation to the public to subscribe for any shares or debenture of the company' which means only the members can buy the shares. The size of this type of limited company is usually smaller because of limited members and capital. According to law, the minimum number of members has to be at least two in this type of company. Gradually, the number of private limited companies is increasing in Bangladesh.

b) Public Limited Company

The company in which minimum number of members is seven and maximum is limited by the number of shares as mentioned in the memorandum of association, can make invitation for subscription of shares and debentures, and shares are easily transferable is called a Public Limited Company. Public Limited Company can increase the number of members by increasing the number of shares of the company by changing the memorandum of association. As per law this type of company must have at least three directors.

Importance of Joint Stock Company

In today's business world, like the sole proprietorship business company joint ownership company is also very popular. Besides, forming large size of business it is possible to create employment opportunity for a larger group of people. Employment does not only eliminate unemployment but also enhances the standard of living and per capita income. More over, because of unlimited liability in case of sole proprietorship and partnership business, large scale of investment in risky venture is not possible which is possible in joint stock companies. Besides, Joint stock companies are more suitable for high technology based industry. Because, the large amount of capital required to set up this type of business can be procured through selling shares to public in the public limited company. As a result, involvement in the industrial development of the country increases. Through Joint Stock Company, business can expand internationally and relationship among the countries is strengthened. At present many Multi National Companies (MNC's) are running their business world wide. Bata Shoe Company, Unilver, etc. Multinational Companies are working in our country,. In this way, company of one country develops relationship with another through opening their business branch in that country. During the last two decades many Joint Stock Companies have been established in Bangladesh which are contributing to the economic development of the country and creating employment.

Process of Formation of a Company

Companies in Bangladesh are formed following some sequential process under the prevailing Company Act 1994. Formation of a company is done through four continuous stages. These are:

a. Taking Initiative

At this stage, people interested to form the company come together to take decision about the probable name of the company, type of the company, amount of capital, ways to raise fund, address of the company etc. The entrepreneurs fix the possible name of the company and take certificates from the Registrar of Joint Stock Company.

b. Preparation of Documents

At this stage, the entrepreneurs of the business prepare two important documents for the business. One is called Memorandum of Association and the other one is Memorandum of Articles. Memorandum of Association is called the main document of limited company. It is also called the main deed, certificate or constitution of the company. Various important issues like name of the company, registered address, objective of business, amount of capital, responsibilities of the share holders, minimum subscription etc. are incorporated in it. On the other hand, Memorandum of Articles incorporates all the necessary internal operational procedures of the business.

c. Collection of Registration

At this stage, for registration of the company, application for registration is collected by paying a certain amount of fees. The application form is submitted having it filled up properly to the registrar of the Joint Stock Company along with certain amount of fees and other necessary documents.

If the registrar is satisfied after receiving the application, fee and all the related documents then he enlists the company in the register book and gives certificate of registration. Private Limited Company can commence its business after receiving this document, but Public Limited Company has to wait for the Business Commencement Certificate from the Registrar to launch the business.

d. Business Commencement

To collect the business commencement certificate for launching business operation of the public limited company, application to be made to the registrar along with declaration of minimum subscription of capital by the directors and Prospectus to issue share to the public with other important documents. If all the documents are found correct and the registrar is satisfied, then he provides business commencement certificate to the company. Public limited company can commence business after receiving this document.

Concept of Cooperative Society

The word 'cooperative' refers to work with combined initiative or effort. Cooperative has evolved to proceed with the inspiration and belief of combined effort. Because of Industrial Revolution and technology based large scale of business, the base of capitalism increases, the more the economic discrimination in the society is amplified. Lower and middle income group of professional and businessmen start to face economic destitution. Cooperative society starts to evolve in different countries for emancipation from economic differences and destitution created by capitalism. At first, Cooperative revolution started in Western Europe, America and Japan. But, Rochdale Equitable Pioneers Society established in 1844 at a place named Rochdale located at North England leads the pioneer in establishing cooperative society. This is considered the first cooperative society in the world formed by 28 weavers with 28 pound sterling of capital. The members of this society were not financially solvent. They were incapable to buy costly food and other necessities with their small wages. With the help of cooperative they collected the regular necessities at a lower cost and used to sell among the members.

Rochdale Pioneer Equitable Society : First Cooperative organization of the world
Established 1844

They had taken the policy of democratic mentality, trust and honor to each other and honesty to operate this business. In this way the journey of cooperative society starts.

In this subcontinent, government took initiative to form cooperative society in 1904. Kolkata Bengal Cooperative Society was established in 1918. The campaign of cooperative society got huge popularity through establishing Bangladesh Academy for Rural Development (BARD) at Comilla by renowned Civil Service Officer Dr. Akhter Hamid Khan in 1959. National Cooperative Bank started operation in independent Bangladesh in 1972. Afterwards, various types of cooperative society have been formed in our country. 'Bangladesh Milk Producers' Cooperative Union Limited' which is known as 'Milk Vita' is another mentionable cooperative society of the milk producers in Bangladesh. Besides, many other cooperative society at national level are working in Bangladesh like 'Fishermen Cooperative Society Limited', 'Bangladesh Auto Rickshaw Puller Cooperative Federation Ltd.' 'Comilla Industrial Cooperative Society Ltd.' 'Bangladesh Women Cooperative Society Limited'. According to statistics of 2009, in Bangladesh there are 1,63,408 cooperative society with member of 85,05,038 persons. At present all the cooperative societies in Bangladesh are operated on the basis of Cooperative Act 2001 and Cooperative Policy 2004. Cooperative business has been acknowledged as a popular business organization in various developing and developed countries including Bangladesh.

Hundred years of Cooperative in Bangladesh (1904-2004)

Characteristics of Cooperative Organization

Generally, several low and middle income group of people with similar mentality willingly come together to form cooperative society to fulfill their economic objective. They invest money equitably, operate the organization democratically, and are agreed to justly bear the risk and share the advantages and disadvantages of the business. Cooperative Society has some features which are analyzed below:

1. Generally, lower class and middle class people of similar mentality and profession willingly forms this type of organization. The objective of the society is to enhance the socio economic standard of the members in a legitimate way. The main objective of this business is to gain self dependency, not profit.
2. Cooperative Act 2001 has delineated three types of cooperative business; these are
 - a. Primary Cooperative Society which shall have minimum 20 members and objective is to enhance the socio-economic condition of the members in a legal way. Maximum number of member is not specified.
 - b. Central Cooperative Society which will be formed with the 10 primary cooperative societies with the objective to cooperate and coordinate the activities of the member society.
 - c. National cooperative society which will be formed by comprising 10 central cooperative societies with the objective to cooperate and coordinate the activities of the member society all over the country.

3. Cooperative society is formed under cooperative society Act having a nonperson and separate identity which has fixed continuous existence, shall have the right to acquire, hold, transfer assets and ability to enter into contract. The society shall have a seal and has the ability to sue and be sued.
4. The total capital of the Cooperative Society is divided in to small number of shares. A person can be a member through buying a share, but, any member can not buy more than one fifth of the total share of the organization. Liabilities of the members are limited by the value of share.
5. Cooperative society is operated and managed by following democratic rules and procedures. For all kinds of cooperative society, a member is eligible to cast only one vote in decision making process of the society. To cast the vote the member must be present because no proxy is allowed.
6. If the cooperative society is not registered or approved as per Cooperative Act 2001, any person, club, organization or cooperative can not use the word 'Cooperative' in its name. It means, without registration, using the word 'cooperative' is prohibited.

Though cooperative has similarity with other types of business, it has some different features as well.

Classification of Cooperative Society

Cooperative is in fact an organization of the poor middle and destitute group of people in the society. But, at present people from various profession and class with their own initiative or government assistance form different types of cooperative society to be self-dependent economically and socially. 15. Youth Cooperative Society (for the men and women aged from 18 to 35)
16. Housing Cooperative Society
17. Apartment or Flat Owners Cooperative Society
18. Shop Owners / Businessmen / Market Cooperative Society

The main objective of all the cooperative society is to develop the socio-economic standard of its members. Though cooperative society evolved for the lower class, at present various people of different groups or profession have the opportunity to form cooperative society. As a result, we can hope that thousands of educated and semi-educated young people of the country shall be motivated to establish cooperative society to be self employed and shall significantly contribute to the economic development of the country.

Formation Process of Cooperative Society

Since, Cooperative Society is formed legally, society must be formed and operated under a set of legal procedures. As per Cooperative Society Act 2001, Cooperative Society is formed at the following three stages:

- a) Initiation Stage: To form a Cooperative Society, at least twenty people must come together from similar class, profession, status or similar mentality. Among these originators, a management committee of six people is formed. This committee outlines a by laws to form the Cooperative Society with the registration. The By-Laws consists the name of the society, address, objective, full description of capital, value of share and number, method of selling share, initiators name, address and position, method of operating the society, etc. A seal must be made for the cooperative society. If the society has limited liabilities, the word "Ltd." must be added at the end of society's name.
- b) Registration Stage: At this stage, steps are taken for registration of the society. For registration, Form-1 is to be collected from the government approved local authority and to be submitted having filled up properly along with fees and three (3) copies of By-laws to the registrar. To form the Primary Cooperative Society by the Poor, Landless and Shelter less people under the government Poverty Alleviation Program, a treasury challan of Tk.300.00, for central Cooperative Society Tk.1000.00 and for National Cooperative Society Tk.5000.00 should be submitted along with the application form. Amount of share capital for registration of Cooperative Society is fixed. For registration of Primary Cooperative Society formed willingly to alleviate poverty or under government program paid up capital of at least Tk.3,000.00, Other Primary cooperative society except Credit Co-operative Society Tk.20,000.00, for registration of Credit Cooperative Society paid up capital of at least Tk.100,00,000.00 and for central and national cooperative society paid up capital of Tk.1,00,000.00 is required. After scrutinizing all the documents and By-laws in details, the registrar enlists the name of the society in his Registration Book and returns 2 (two) copies of By-laws with registration number to the society. The registration process is completed in this way.

- c) Business Commencement Stage: After registration, the society gets legal existence. Without registration no association can use the cooperative word. After getting the registration, the originators of the society can start various economic and social activities.

Basic Principles of Cooperative Society

Cooperative society is formed with a different ideology and objective than the other business organization. Generally, people of same class, same profession, belonging to the society of poor, middle or destitute primarily with the objective to develop their own socio-economic condition and on the basis of some other principles cooperative society is formed. The basic principles of cooperative are described below:

1. The main principle of cooperative is the unity of the people of similar mentality, profession and class based on economic condition. Actually, the business was formed on the principle of unity is strength.
2. Another important principle of cooperative is equality or equal participation of all the members. All the members are entitled of similar honor irrespective of their economic, social, political and religious status.
3. Another principle or ethics of cooperative is to cooperate among the members. Member's cooperation and sympathy to each other contributes significantly towards the development of the cooperative society. It is the key to success of the cooperative society.
4. Trust and faith of each member on others is considered to be another important principle of cooperative society. This makes them vigorous, interested and confident.
5. Its democratic value and concept is another fundamental principle. All the members of the cooperative society have the right to cast vote and every member has a single vote. All the members have equal rights to express opinion and cast vote irrespective of their paid up capital or amount of share in the society.

Problems and Prospects of Cooperative Society in Bangladesh

If we consider the socio-economic condition of our country, we shall find that eighty percent of our population is engaged in agriculture and village based various profession to earn a living like Farmer, Labour, Weaver, Fishermen, Blacksmith, Potter and various types of small and cottage industries like Bamboo and Cane, Pottery, Shell, Handicrafts, and various types of sole proprietorship business such as groceries, tailor, Pharmacy, Vegetable shop, Saloon, Tea stall etc. Although, most of them are from small and low income group of the society, they are deprived from various social benefits such as education, healthcare etc. It is not possible to overcome these difficulties solely. On the other hand, the farmers and agriculture in this country could not contribute to the fullest extent because of primitive cultivation method, shortage of capital, quality fertilizer, scarcity of seeds and pesticides and small pieces of land. They become victim of deceit from various intermediaries because of lack of unity, cooperation, trust among themselves. Cooperative Society is the most suitable place for these type of different groups of small and low income farmers, labors and small traders for the development of their socio-economic condition. They can also contribute for the economic development of the country along with their socio-economic development by forming cooperative society. Many cooperative societies have been formed after the Independence which has enabled those groups to develop their own condition as well as to the development of the economy as a whole. But, this is not sufficient comparing the society and country. Everybody, specially the young generation must be encouraged to be engaged in cooperative society with the help of Government assistance, suitable training and huge campaign on mass media.

How can you encourage the farmers of your locality to form cooperative society?	How will you encourage yourself to form cooperative society after completion of your studies?

Concept of the State Enterprise

Generally, companies formed, operated and controlled by the state are called State Enterprise. This kind of business can be established by the state. For the necessity of the state, business formed in other criterias can also be converted in to state enterprise trough nationalization. Normally, state enterprises are established to ensure industrialization, employment generation, controlling money and banking system, proper uses and distribution of all the assets including natural resources and public welfare in some specific sectors. Besides, state enterprises are also formed and operated to control Arms Factories for the safeguard and security of the nation. At present, in all the countries of the world there are some state run business operated.

Characteristics of State Enterprise

State Enterprises have some unique characteristics. These are described below:

- State Enterprises are formed by the ordnance of the Head of State or passing bill in the National Parliament. Besides, this type of business can also be formed by nationalization by state ordnance.
- The ownership of the state enterprises belongs to the state and the government supplies all the required capital. But, in some cases partial amount of share can be sold to the public. In that case, suppliers of capital are government and public.

- This type of business is formed under specific law and has legal and separate entity. Because of legal entity and separate entity, state enterprises have eternal existence.
- Like other business, the objective of state enterprises is not earning or maximizing profit, public welfare or public service is its main objective.
- The profit of this business is deposited to the government treasury and spent for the public welfare. The loss has to be born by the government.
- For the success or failure of state enterprises, the government is accountable to the parliament.

- Explain the types of Insurance and process of insurance

Legal Aspects of Business

Since 1998, the Business Entrepreneurship course has been included in the secondary level as an elective course in the commerce group. A teacher from Commerce Faculty of the University of Dhaka wrote and marketed the book. The students of this subject had been waiting for this book. As a result, the third edition of 8000 copies of this book was sold out immediately after publishing. In fourth edition only 4000 copies of this book had been published, but surprisingly sales were nearly stopped. After searching the reason it was found that copy of the book at a comparatively less price was sold in the market. Finding no other way, the teacher went to the nearby police station. Police asked him about the copy right of the book, whether it was registered. Though the writer was aware of the necessity of registration of copy right, ignoring the importance of registration of copy right, he abstained from doing it. Police regretted of their inability to do anything in favor of him. Consequently the teacher incurred loss financially and lost interest to republish the book.

What have you understood reading the above story?

If the writer would have registered the copy right of the book, he could be saved from the financial loss. Business entrepreneurs have some intellectual property such as copy right, patent, trade mark etc. They are the result of research in business entrepreneurship and invaluable asset of business. To protect and preserve these assets all the countries have legal bindings. The entrepreneurs must have primary knowledge about these assets and the related law. Legal concepts help the entrepreneurs to be protected from the legal problems of the business.

1. License

To start any kind of business, approval should be taken or be registered from the respective authority. Approval or registration process varies depending upon the nature of business. In case of sole proprietorship business, if it is within the city corporation, trade license should be collected from the corporation authority and if it is outside of the city corporation, license to be collected from the district administration. In our country registration of partnership business is not mandatory. But, if the partners want they can apply to the registrar for registration following a particular procedure. Such application must be accompanied by particular fees.

Registration of Joint Stock Companies

As per company Act, registration of joint stock companies in Bangladesh is mandatory. In this case, registration is done by the registrar of the Joint Stock Companies. The originators apply to the registrar along with other related documents and specific fees. The registrar issues certificate if he finds all the submitted documents satisfactory after detailed scrutiny. The company gets life after having the registration. For registration application of the private limited company there should be at least two originators and public limited company it should be seven. Private limited company can start business after having the registration certificate, but the public limited companies have to collect business commencement certificate to start the business.

2. Franchising

At present, business established and operated under franchising has got popularity. The right of using the name of a reputed business firm and making, selling and distributing its products is called Franchising. Band Box, Pizza Hut, KFC, Wimpi, Kentaki, etc are the example of this type of business. There are two parties in franchising: Franchisor and Franchisee. For example we can say that the KFC of America is the Franchisor and Transcom Limited in Bangladesh is the Franchisee. The main features of Franchising are:

- 1) Deed of Agreement between Franchisor and Franchisee
- 2) Branded Products or Service
- 3) Monitoring by the Franchisor to ensure the product quality and process at the accepted level.

The Franchise Agreement

Franchising Agreement is the main element of franchising business which is executed between the Franchisor and Franchisee. The clauses of the deed of agreement may vary on the basis of amount of capital, training arrangement, management help, etc. Franchising area is also very important. But, the following issues are very common in most of franchising agreement:

- a) Franchisee has to pay a particular amount of fee initially and pays a specified amount of monthly fee. In return, the franchisee gets right to sale products of the Franchisor as per day.
- b) Franchisee must agree to invest required amount of investment.
- c) Both the parties shall have the objective to earn money from the business. Profit is the yardstick for the success of business. The management should be efficient and goods and services need to be of better quality to be successful.
- d) Franchisor starts to earn from the day of receiving fees. In some cases, franchisor can demand for the fee before allowing the franchising.
- e) As per agreement, the franchisor may keep the right to place selection, infrastructure development and ownership of these things to him.
- f) If the business is not to satisfactory level of the franchisor, he can cancel the agreement.
- g) Franchisee can sell only those items which are acceptable to Franchisor.
If the contents of the deed of agreement are acceptable to both the parties, then they can sign it.

Franchising business can be operated on the basis of legal bindings in Bangladesh through registration. For example, if the company is a private limited company then it can start business in Bangladesh through registration from the registrar of the joint stock companies.

There are many advantages of doing business through Franchising . Such as, marketing of branded products, training of workers, getting business related advice from the franchisor and having arrangement of financing facility. Among the disadvantages, tight monitoring, probability of cancellation of agreement on breaching of any terms or clause of the contract and requirement of large amount of investment etc. are mentionable. Though having the difficulties, franchising has been assisting in developing and setting new businesses. In many foreign countries, franchising has gained vast popularity, but it is still not very much popular and well known in Bangladesh. Gradually, it will become popular, if the branches are increased in the district level along with the big cities.

1. Intellectual Properties

Works created from creativity and intellectuality is Intellectual Property. Inventions applicable to business, industry or commerce, Arts and literature, design, symbol, name etc. are included in intellectual property. The intellectual properties of an entrepreneur are those which have been invented with a long time effort. Intellectual properties are results of all the invention and creative works. Using the intellectual properties, human being has discovered many mystery of the creation. Intellectual properties have made knowing the impossible possible. Among this properties, Patent, Trade Mark and Copy right are mentionable. Intellectual Property Day on 26th of April is observed every year in Bangladesh along with the world.

2. Patents:

Patent is one kind of Intellectual Property. With the help of patent, the inventor is given a monopoly ownership over his invention for a certain period of time. In this case, an agreement is signed between the inventor and the government. Giving Patent to the inventor means that anybody cannot make it, use it or sell it for a particular period of time. Sometimes, the dishonest business people or competitors may duplicate the products in the market and the original inventors may incur financial loss. The main objective of Patent is to protect the entrepreneurs' invention so that nobody can duplicate the product to gain financial benefit from making and selling it to the market. In the business world, in the past many genuine inventors had incurred financial loss in this way. As a result the concept of patent evolved. However, because of entrepreneur's lack of awareness and ignorance, they have been cheated many times. In Bangladesh, we have been following the Patent and Design Law of 1911.

3. Trade Mark

Trade Mark is used to differentiate products in trade from other same and identical products. In the similar way, incase of service it is called the Service Mark. The main objective of the mark or symbol is self identity. Device, Brand, Heading, Label, Ticket, Name, Signature, Word, Letter, Symbol, Numbers added things, Mix of color, or any combination of these at any form will be included in Trade Mark. Packing is not included in the Trade Mark.

Necessity of Trade Mark Registration

Registered Trade Mark gives the owner sole ownership or entitlement to use the mark exclusively. Without the permission of the registered owner, nobody can use the mark. If the registered mark is renowned, the owner shall enjoy his ownership on all the products having the marks. And the mark is protected under the law. If the rights are breached, the owner can sue against to protect his rights.

Time-limit of Trade Mark Registration

The owner of the registered trade mark reserves the exclusive right to use the mark. This registration is given for seven years initially. It can be renewed for ten years, if application is made before the expiry. Registration can be renewed again and again for an uncertain period of time. If any agreement is breached or any complaint is proved, the registration can be cancelled if it is not renewed in time. In this Sub-continent Trade Mark act has been introduced in 1940. In Bangladesh, at present we are following Trade Mark Act 2009.

4. Copyright:

Copyright is another significant intellectual property, which if not protected can cause huge loss to the owner or its entitled person. Exclusive entitlement is given on the use of literature, arts and culture to its creator with the help of Copyright. Literature including Story, Drama, Essay, Poem, etc. Paintings, Film, Music, Instrumental Music, Sculpture Art are also preserved by Copyright. Presently, computer software is also protected by Copyright. For example, we can say that when an agreement is signed between the writer and the publisher for publishing and marketing of the book it is called Copyright agreement. In the agreement period and amount of royalty etc. are mentioned. If the deed of agreement is registered then the writer can take protection from the court for any breach of conditions and terms. Branded products, Sports, Name of film stars can be distributed through Copyright agreement. Actually, Copyright agreement is a popular medium for distribution of products and services. Copyright Act was actually introduced in 1912 in this Sub-continent. Bangladesh has Copyright Act in 2000 and which was amended in 2005. If the ways for protection of Copyright is properly followed, business entrepreneurs can be safeguarded from their loss in most of the cases. As per Copyright Act 2005, the right of the artist is preserved till 60 years after the death of the artist along with his/her life time.

5. Bangladesh Standards and Testing Institutions- BSTI

For producing and marketing a product it is necessary to register the symbol of a product to separate it from other similar products that are bought and sold in the market. Bangladesh Standard and Testing Institution is responsible for this job. It is an organization under the ministry of Industry. For registration of trademark of a product, application to be submitted on prescribed form along with specified fees. Moreover, to ascertain the quality of some products, certificate to be obtained mandatorily from BSTI after production of those products as per standards. BSTI mandatorily maintains a list of products certificated by them. In any case, if the quality is not maintained to the predefined standard, their certificate may be cancelled. There are some products which have mandatorily maintained standard under BSTI certification and quality of those products can be ensured from BSTI. To maintain the quality of products, BSTI extends necessary assistance in this regards.

6. Insurance

The probability of loss in a business for any reason is called business risk. Without risk there is no business. Business enterprises can face risk; due to natural or unnatural reasons. Storm, flood, cyclone and excessive rain are major natural risk. Besides, business enterprises can face huge damage because of burglary, snatching, fire, marine, rail and motor accidents. Insurance is a better way to reduce this sort of risks. Insurance is also a business.

When any business organization agrees to make payment of a particular sum of money for loss caused by any predefined incident or for occurrence of the specified incident against payment of particular premium is called Insurance Contract. The party who agrees to compensate or make payment of the particular amount of money is called 'Insurer', on the other hand; the party who is being compensated is called the 'Insured'. As per agreement the insured gives the insurer a certain amount of money at a time or regular installment based which is called 'Premium'. The deed of insurance agreement is called Insurance Cover Note which includes all the details of terms and condition between the parties. Insurance is called the contract of compensation. But, life insurance is an exception in this case.

Insurance System is also exists in Bangladesh like other countries. In our country, we had been following the Insurance Act 1938 which had been introduced in the subcontinent. Later, in 2010 the Act has been changed, modified and amended and a new law has been enforced which is known as Insurance Act 2010.

Necessity of Insurance in Business

Assessing the risk in business is an important task for an entrepreneur. There are many risk associated with production and distribution process. A business firm may face difficulties and financial loss at any time due to supernatural loss, theft, workers sickness, accident, fire, and sinking of vessel. The insurance organizations compensate the insured against the above mentioned losses in exchange of premium as per insurance agreement. For this reason, insurance is very much helpful for a business. As a result, in absence of the insurance service many entrepreneurs would have to leave the business at the primary stage because of probable risk inherited in the business. So, it is necessary to have the assistance of insurance to smoothly run the business by removing the stipulations of risk and prevailing uncertainty in the business.

Classification of Insurance

At present, there are many types of Insurance. Among them four types are the most popular:

1. Life Insurance
2. Marine Insurance
3. Fire Insurance
4. Accident Insurance

Having the benefit of insurance, at present many types of insurance have been evolved in the market, such as: Insurance for Burglary, Trust, Riot, Strike, Earthquake, Liabilities, Motor Car, and Crop etc. Some of them are discussed below:

Life Insurance

Life insurance is the most popular among all the insurance business. The Insurance Policy which gives the insured or any nominated person a certain sum of money (insured amount) by the insurer against insurance premium after a certain period of time or death of the person nominated is called life insurance. Life of human being is the subject matter of this insurance. Since, life can not be compensated; it can not be called the contract of compensation like all other insurance contract.

Fire Insurance

The insurance policy which gives the compensation against losses caused by fire is called Fire Insurance. Generally, Fire Insurance Policy is taken to protect Goods, Houses, Warehouse, Factories and Machinerics from fire.

Marine Insurance

The Insurance policy which gives protection from the risk associated with river journey and sea voyage is called Marine Insurance. A major part of the world business is done through water ways. To avoid the risk related to water ways, such as Storm, Tsunami, Pirates, War etc. marine insurance can be taken.

Accident Insurance

Insurance for Life and the risk of destruction of asset of a person are included in the Accident Insurance. In this kind of policy, as per terms of the policy the insurer pays compensation for particular insurance premium to the insured for any loss against the probable accident.

CHAPTER SIX

Business Plan

The main objective of business is to make profit. If there is planning in running business, success becomes easier and possibility of failure reduces. Sometimes, many enthusiastic entrepreneurs can not become successful because of lack of proper planning in regard to the business. In this chapter, we shall discuss various aspects of business planning.

At the end of this chapter the students will be-

- Explain the concept and importance of business planning
- Explain the process of business planning
- Explain the concept of project planning and its importance
- Describe the steps of project planning
- Able to select the right business in entrepreneurship through project selection process.
- able to prepare the structure table for project planning.
- Explain the concept and necessity of self-analysis.
- Explain the process of self-analysis step by step.

Concept of Business Plan

Business plan is the chart/ graph of the future activities of business. It is written documents through which the objective of the business, nature, management style, financing, present status and future development process are depicted. Business planning provides the proper guide-lines for a business to achieve success and follow the right course. Business planning helps the businessman to reach his objective like radar helping an aero plane to reach its destination. Business planning is necessary in both cases, starting a new business or expansion of existing business. A business planning can be compared to the road map of a tourist or blue print for a building constructor.

Importance of Business Plan

The importance of business plan is immense in starting the business, maintaining it properly and operating it to reach the objective. The main importance of business plan is as follows:

1. Guide line to operate the business: To achieve the objective of business what, when, how and at what time a thing is to be done is properly mentioned in the plan. As a result it works as a deed of guideline to the entrepreneur.
2. Capital arrangement and Investment: When additional capital is necessary for a business, it is not possible for the entrepreneur to arrange the additional capital, then bank loan or from other sources capital is to be arranged. In this case, the lender or the investor can take decision by analyzing the business plan before extending the loan.
3. Proper utilization of government facilities: Small and medium size enterprises receive many facilities from the government. Business Plan helps to avail those facilities.
4. Helps to make decision: Business plan helps to take decision and give a concept about the competitor, which way the business should be expanded in future, which business is more profitable, what product is to be produced in future etc.

Besides above mentioned things, by reading the business plan the stakeholders can gain a clear concept of the business.

Process of Business Plan

The success of business depend on right selection of the project. A project is a planned and thoughtful work process to be completed within a particular time and objective. It starts and ends at a specified time. A project may be a new venture for investment or expansion of old business. The first step of the business plan process is to identify the concepts and evaluate them for selection.

1. Identifying the Project Concept:

Selection of the project starts from the identifying the concept of the project by the entrepreneur. He can assess the surrounding environment and get the idea for the demand of a product and services. Selection of a project depends on this demand. Normally, the demand of product and services give birth to the project idea. During the selection of the project it is wise to think of products related to entrepreneur's hobby or interest, products having real demand, prevailing disadvantages of the products, opportunity of using new technology. The sources of new project concepts are entrepreneur's own thinking, various government and non-government publication, economic and industrial report and research report.

2. Evaluation of the Concepts and Selection of the Project:

An Entrepreneur shall make a list of the probable projects after analyzing the information from various sources. A project shall be selected from the list after analyzing it through various methods. A project can be selected by two methods by analyzing the selected concepts. One is Macro-screening and the other is Micro-screening.

a) Macro-Screening

Macro-screening is such a process which helps to select a project by evaluating the influential elements of the business concepts. All the businesses are influenced by some elements which are beyond control of the entrepreneur. These elements are population, economy, politics, society, cultural and legal environment.

- Population: The existence, progress and advancement of a business depend upon the population of the locality where the business is located. The demand of the product is influenced by the size of the market, population, and population growth ratio.
- Economic Environment: The demand of the product is also influenced by the consumer's income, savings, expenditure pattern and standard of living. Decision should be taken considering these elements while selecting a project.

- Natural Environment: Natural environment plays a vital role in selecting a project. The raw materials for the industry come from the natural environment. But, those businesses should be avoided which destroy the environment.
- Political Environment: Political stability, ideology of the leading parties and attitude of the politicians also influence the business activities.
- Cultural Environment: Education rate, expansion of technical education, social ethics and religious values work as an important element for selection of the business project.
- Legal environment: The prevailing law of the state, industrial policy contribute a lot to the expansion of the business of a country.

Selection of project through Macro-screening is an initial stage. To select the project finally and assess the appropriateness of the project, detailed scrutiny is done with the help of Micro-screening.

B. Micro-Screening:

Micro-screening is the detailed process of selecting a project through analyzing the market demand, technical, commercial and financial aspect and contribution to the national economy, etc. The elements of micro-screening are explained below:

- Market Demand: Through market survey and analysis of market demand, consumer's point of view and interest, number of competitors in the market and advantages and disadvantages of products are properly justified.
- Technical Aspect: Technical aspects of projects are justified from the technological and mechanical point of view. Production processes, technology specification, selection of machineries, feasibility of implementation of the projects are included in these types of jobs.
- Commercial Aspect: Profitability or commercial viability of a project is most important to select a project. In this case, elements of production cost, sales price, estimated profit etc. are to be considered very carefully.
- Financial Aspect: In this case, a project is selected considering the expenditure of the project, sources of financing, return on investment etc.

- Contribution to the National Economy: It is also essential to evaluate how the project shall contribute to the national economy. The yardstick to measure the economic contribution is employment generation, tax payment to the national treasury etc.

From the discussed point of view, projects having realistic and profitable attributes are selected for investment. It is mentionable here that in case of small enterprises and retailing projects; contribution to the national economy is not significant. But, in case of medium and large business such as manufacturing or production oriented business macro and micro-screening both are necessary to select a project.

3. Submission of Business Project Report

The last stage of the business plan is to prepare an excellent report. This report is prepared on the basis of justifiable information of the probability of the selected project.

Guideline for Small Business Plan

It is necessary to be careful while preparing a business plan. The entrepreneur can make the report himself or with the help of any other specialist. The following guidelines can be followed to prepare a proper business plan:

- Business plan should be precise and free from excessive wordings.
- The objective of the business is to focus only on one or two products and place for the product and market selection.
- In the management process of the business unknown person should not be included
- Any product should not be described with words only understood by the professionals; rather, it should be comprehensible to all.
- Sales volume should be projected on the basis of realistic quantity of production capacity. Sales account should be maintained very carefully.
- Business plan should not be drafted on the basis of vague information.
- There should be a detailed discussion on the present and probable problems of the business in the business plan.
- It is necessary to involve all the members of the management team in making business plan and if necessary, advice from an expert may be sought for.

Contents of Small Business Plan

The subject matter of the business plan may vary on the basis of the size of the business, variation in nature and types of the business. But, the following things are common in a business plan:

1. Name of the Business organization
2. Address of the organization
3. Name of the Entrepreneur(s)
4. Brief of the entrepreneurs or directors
5. Nature of business (Sole proprietorship, Partnership, Joint Stock Company)
6. Management style of the business (Single, partnership or joint management)
7. Amount of Capital
8. Precise description of market survey (size of the market, possibility of future progress, ways to penetrate the market, pricing of the product.)
9. Possibility of profit generation (Target profit and guideline to achieve future target profit)
10. Attachment of projected Financial Statement
 - a. Total cost of the project
 - b. Projected Income
 - c. Projected expenditures
 - d. Projected Income Statement
 - e. Projected Balance sheet
 - f. Projected Cash-flow statement
 - g. Statement of Break Even Analysis

A projected financial statement for a grocery project on the basis of sole proprietorship is depicted below:

1. Cost of Project

Fixed Capital	Amount (Taka)
(This type of cost is to bear at the time of starting the business only)	2,00,000.00
Advance Rent for the Shop	3,00,000.00
Furniture & Fixtures	50,000.00
Others	5,50,000.00
Total

Working Capital

(These types of expenditures have to make all the year round to operate the business smoothly)

Purchase of various goods	3,00,000.00
Salary of workers/staffs	48,000.00
Electricity Bill	12,000.00
Rent	36,000.00
Others	54,000.00
Total	4,50,000.00

Total Cost of the Project

Fixed Capital	5,50,000.00
Working Capital	4,50,000.00
Total	10,00,000.00

Financing of the Project:

Own Source	6,00,000.00
Borrowing from Relatives	2,00,000.00
Bank Loan	2,00,000.00
Total Project Cost	10,00,000.00

Projected Income Statement

Revenue (from Sales)		6,00,000.00
Estimated Cost :
Purchase of goods	3,00,000.00
Salary	48,000.00
Electric Bill	12,000.00
Rent	36,000.00
Personal expenses of the owner	60,000.00
Others	54,000.00
Projected Income (yearly)		90,000.00

Estimated Cashflow Analysis

It is necessary to estimate the Cashflow to operate the business smoothly. This statement can be preserved daily, weekly and on a monthly basis. In this statement, how much Cash flow is made and how much expenditures is to be made in a particular period of time is estimated. Because of preparation of cashflow statement, the entrepreneur can have a clear idea about the cash position of the business.

Break Even Analysis

Break Even indicates such a state of the business where the income and expenditure of the business become equal. It is neither loss nor profit scenario of the business. More precisely stated when revenue from quantity of goods sold becomes equal to the volume of expenditures is called Break Even. The point at which the sales and expenditure become equal is called Break Even Point. Correct pricing of the product, for expected profit increase of the sales volume, profit planning, increase of profit etc. are possible if the Break Even Point is predefined.

For example, if a businessman manufactures 5000 Cricket bats and sells them he gets no profit or loss. However, if he manufactures more than 5000 Cricket bats he earns profit. On the other hand, if he manufactures less than 5000 Cricket bats he gets loss. In this case manufacturing of 5000 Cricket bats is the break-even point.

Concept and Process of Self Analysis

It is necessary to justify the capability of the entrepreneur to run the business before starting it. The main reason for this is because there is possibility of success and risk of failure in a business. As a result, it is wise to assess the capability before starting the business. It is a complex procedure to assess the business capability.

If the following work chart is properly filled up by an entrepreneur, he would be able to find out whether he has the quality of becoming an entrepreneur:

Sl No.	Question	Yes (1)	No (0)
1	Can you draft a Business Plan?
2	Can you take decision at any situation and maintain your decision in adversity?
3	Are you willing to take responsibility and lead?

4	Do people trust and honor you with whom you stay?
5	Are you physically fit?
6	Can you work for long time?
7	Do you feel free to mix and work with others?
8	Can you communicate effectively with others and influence them to achieve your goal?
9	Can others easily understand your thinking and concept?
10	Do you have in depth knowledge about the business that you want to start?
11	Do you have idea about the related factors of the business such as tax, accounts etc.
12	Do you have experience and concept in marketing and finance?
13	Do you have sufficient supply of fund to start the business?
14	Do you have idea about the materials to start the business?
15	Do you want to start the business staying above all?

After answering the above questions you will give 1 marks for positive answer and 0 for negative answers. Now, count your total achieved number. If your number is:

12 or more then : Enough possibility of becoming entrepreneur

7-11 : Your possibility is not to the optimum level, but you can be successful if you try more.

Below 7 : You do not have sufficient will power to be an entrepreneur

In many cases, because of lack of competency, efficiency and willingness a person can not become an entrepreneur, but the scenario may change. Then you can also be an entrepreneur.

By analyzing the Self Assessment Process mentioned above, try to find out the necessity of Self Assessment:

CHAPTER SEVEN

Industries of Bangladesh

Nafis' s elder uncle is an Engineer in a cement factory at Chatok. During the vacation, Nafis along with his parents and cousins went to visit his uncle. His uncle took him with his other cousins to show how the cement is prepared. Nafis noticed the piles of stones there. His uncle informed that numerous numbers of stones are coming from India everyday. These stones are the raw materials for making cement. These stones are converted into cement with various processes. The cement of Chatok is very good in quality.

Chatok cement industry is an important industry in Bangladesh. In this chapter we shall learn about various types of industries in Bangladesh and their importance, problems and possibilities.

At the end of this chapter we shall be able to –

- Explain the concept, features and importance of cottage industries
- Identify the suitable areas of cottage industries
- Find out the hindrances against the development of cottage industry
- Find out the ways to spread small industries.
- Mark the necessary things to be done for the development of cottage industries.
- Explain the concept of small and medium size business, its features and importance.
- Explain the formation process of small and medium size enterprise
- Considering the socio-economic condition of the country, specially your locality find out the suitable areas for small and medium size enterprise.
- Identify the problems relating to small and medium size enterprise
- Explain the concept and features of large scale industries.
- Explain the importance of large scale business in context of socio-economic condition of Bangladesh.
- Will be encouraged to set up small, medium and cottage industries.

Classification of Industry

Generally, Industry is the process of converting raw materials or primary products into secondary or finished goods using heavy capital investment. Manufacturing of an industry is factory based and factories of a particular product is known as industry as a whole. Such as, Jute Industry, Garments Industry, etc. Though, Bangladesh is an agricultural country, contribution of industry to the economy is not insignificant. In this particular case, government and non-government assistance and entrepreneurship are also increasing. As per National Industry Policy 2010, Industry in Bangladesh is divided in to Manufacturing Industry and Service Industry.

a. Manufacturing Industry

Production, processing, addition and later refinement and processing of produced goods, all are included in the manufacturing industry. In manufacturing industry, raw materials are processed into finished goods using labor and technology. Garments industry, Sugar industry, Jute and Jute Products industry, Fertilizer industry, Cement industry, Leather industry, Ship Building industry, Rail and Engineering industry, all are examples of manufacturing industry.

Rising Ship Building Industry

Problems of Small and Medium Industries in the Context of Bangladesh.

Though the contributions of small industries are increasing day by day for socio-economic and cultural development, yet some problems still exist in developing such industries. The Problems are: traditional concepts, want of raw materials, want of financial support, availability of huge foreign goods in the local markets, poor transport system, lack of support to enter into local and international markets.

Contribution of Cottage, Small and Medium Industries to the Economy of Bangladesh:

In a developing country like Bangladesh, the cottage, Small and Medium size industries play a vital role for the development of the economy. Their contribution towards alleviation of poverty and employment generation is mentionable. Almost ninety six percent of the industries of the country are included in cottage, small and medium size industries. These industries are a major source for generating employment. Millions of people of the country are engaged in this type of industries. These types of industries are formed with small amount of capital, locally available raw materials, individual efficiency, creativity and help of other family members especially from the women. As a result, thousands of people get employed. Particularly, self-employment generation and alleviation of unemployment among the village women, cottage and small industries have a significant role. Cottage and Small Industries have been contributing significantly to maintain and spread out the history and tradition of the country around the world.

Statistics on Small & Cottage Industry of the Country – June, 2011

Total Small Industries	93,660
Total Cottage Industries	6,36,577
Employment at Small and Cottage Industries	33.37 lac

Things to do for the development of Cottage, Small and Medium Industries:

Cottage industry is mainly family based. But, small and medium size industries require more labor in addition to the family members. The entrepreneurs of these types of industry have been contributing a lot for the economic development of the country by utilizing their own effort, brilliance and locally available raw materials. Additional steps need to be taken for the development of these types of industries. These are-

1. To ensure certainty of availability of raw materials:

Normally, these types of industry flourish at place based on the availability of raw materials in the locality. But, in many cases the development of the industry is hindered due to non availability of raw materials for natural calamities, awful transportation system or any other adverse cause. Government assistance is necessary for this reason.

2. Market Proximity:

Market is indispensable for sales and marketing of goods and services. More over, raw materials availability is also dependent on market. There will be rapid development of these types of industries, if, market for raw materials and produced goods are ensured.

3. Sufficient Supply of Labor:

Cottage, Small and medium size industries are mainly labor based industries. For their development efficient worker and cheap labor is necessary. It becomes obligatory to have knowledge on design and technical issues with the emergence of demand of the products and services. There should be sufficient arrangement of training for making the labour force skilled.

4. Transportation Facility:

Though this type of industry is established initially considering local raw materials and demand of product, with the expansion of market and demand it is necessary to have a developed transportation facility to aid the sales and marketing and carrying of raw materials and machineries for the industry.

5. Emphasis on local and foreign, both demands:

Since, small and cottage industries are established with emphasis only on the local demand, importance is concentrated on local demand only. It should be kept in mind that we should give importance to the foreign market as well as emphasizing on local demands.

6. Availability of Capital:

Though the small and cottage industries require small amount of capital, it is not possible for the entrepreneur of this firms to arrange the required amount of capital at all time. So, there should be arrangement for bank loan and other sources of financing.

7. Government Facility:

Cottage industry is the symbol of pride and tradition for the nation. For this reason, for its expansion and development, government help and assistance is necessary. It is a matter of hope that the government is working for the development of these industries through "Small and Cottage Industries Corporation". Government has also decided to provide financial assistance to these industries for their development and expansion. Besides, government is also taking initiative to protect weaving industry, establishing separate area, for Benarasi and Jamdani Palli. Special incentive is going to be given to weavers, blacksmith, potters, bamboo, cane, copper and jute industry, etc.

Activity-2: Prepare a statement visiting some small and medium industries in your area.

Large Industry

In case of manufacturing concern, large industry means, excluding land and factory building, having fixed assets including installation cost of Taka 30 crore and more and engaged number of labor ranging from 250 or more.

In case of Service Industry, Medium Industry means industry having asset value including installation cost of Taka 15 crore or more excluding land and factory building and worker is more than 100. Among the large industries in Bangladesh, Fertilizer, Cement, Paper, Electricity, Garments, Steel, Engineering, Pharmaceuticals, Jute and Jute goods, Tea, Glass and Glass Tube industries are mentionable.

Importance of large industries in the socio-economic context of Bangladesh :

Though Bangladesh is an agricultural country, yet industries play a vital role in economic growth.

Contribution of large industries is increasing day by day in national economy.

Besides for the development of large industries the support from both the private and the government is increasing. Cheap labourers are available in our country. Therefore, our country needs such type of large industries where greater number of employment opportunities will be generated.

Developed and underdeveloped Area

Bangladesh is underdeveloped in industry. The industrialization process is still very slow because of some problems and obstacles. Firstly, underdeveloped socio-economic infrastructure such as roads and highways, lack of electricity and gas, lack of good transport and communication system, lack of technical knowledge and efficient labor, conflict between labor and owner, labor unrest etc. are the reasons for obstructing the development of industrialization. Besides, the whole country is not developed in industry equally at all the place. As a result differences are noticed among districts in respect of industrial development. As per 2010 Industrial Policy; a list of developed and underdeveloped district according to industrialization are mentioned. The list is as follows:

Division	Developed District	Under Developed District
Dhaka	Dhaka, Narayangonj, Narshingdi and Gazipur,	Jamalpur, Sherpur, Netrokona, Kishoregonj, Mymensing, Tangail, Rajbari, Gopalganj, Shariatpur, Madaripur, Faridpur, Manikgonj and Munshigonj

CHAPTER EIGHT

Management of Business Organization

There is a correlation between the development of management and the evolution of the civilization. Initially, management was based on family and group. The concept of management spread over all spheres of life with the progression of civilization. The concept of management got huge popularity from the business operating method of the businessmen. Generally, Management is the process of making others to do necessary jobs to achieve a certain objective. In this chapter, we will learn about the concept of management, activities and various elements of management in an organization.

After reading this chapter, we will be able to –

- Explain the management concept and activities.
- Describe the concept and necessity of planning.
- Explain the concept and importance of organizing.
- Describe the concept of leadership and its types
- Identify the quality of a good leader
- Describe the concept and sources of financing of a business

Concept of Management

Mr. Rahman has been operating a business of fabrics for five years. All kinds of fabrics and readymade garments are available in his shop. Many buyers come to his shop every day. He has been operating the business alone. He started to think about appointing a staff with the expansion of the business. Recently, he has recruited a staff. As a result, he was relieved a little bit from the work load. But, after some days, the customers of the shop brought charges against the staff for opening the shop late and complained about his misbehavior. Mr. Rahman listened to his customers attentively and advised the staff to protect the goodwill of the business. The staff realized his fault. He got motivated to work more attentively in future.

In the above mentioned story, thinking of appointing staff, recruitment of the staff, giving attention to the customers objection against the staff and taking measures accordingly, all these activities of Mr. Rahman are the part of his business management.

Management is the efficiency and strategy of doing things by utilizing others potential. According to Henry Fayol who is known as the father of the modern management "Management is the combination of forecasting and planning, organizing, commanding, coordinating and controlling." Some features of management are:

- Management is a systematic process of some tasks.
- Management is operated to achieve a predefined goal.
- Management is a process based on team
- Management is a continuous process. It is necessary to take new strategy of management with the passage of time.

Functions of Management

All the activities performed to achieve a predefined goal is known as management. Many activities have to be performed under management to achieve the defined target through operating the human resources and other elements of business. The functions of management are described below:

1. Planning: Planning is the guideline for future work process. Planning is the process to specify that what jobs to be done, who will do them, when and how it is to be done in future to accomplish the predefined goal of the business organization. Planning is the first job of management.

2. Organizing: Organizing is known as the process of accumulation of human resources and other elements of the business for proper utilization and distribution of power and responsibilities among the workers and building interpersonal relationship among them.
3. Staffing: Major element of an organization is its work force. It is termed as the human resources of the company. Staffing includes collection of worker, selection, recruitment and training, promotion, transfer and lay off.
4. Directing: Direction is called to commanding the workers to implement the plan. The manager gives order to the worker about when, what and how to do a job. Workers can show most efficiency if the direction is appropriate. That is why many has compared direction with leadership
5. Motivation: Motivation is the process of making the worker attracted and encouraged towards the job of the organization. Because of motivation, the workers become responsible and perform with quality.
6. Coordinating: Coordination means effective communication between the workers of the organization, various divisions and departments. Through coordination all the workers form a team which help them to perform with unity.
7. Controlling: Controlling refers to the activities related to looking after whether the works are done according to the plan, finding variances if any, and taking corrective measures if necessary. Controlling makes the implementation of planning easier.

Due to effective and corrective measures of controlling business organizations lead to development overcoming internal and external barriers and obstacles. However, it can be ensured through controlling whether the appropriate work is being done in appropriate way and time.

Concept of Planning:

The teacher of Business Entrepreneurship, Mr. Kohinur entered the class and exchanged greetings. The students also welcomed him spontaneously. He wanted to know about the experience of visiting a factory before starting the discussion of classification of industry.

He found that most of the students do not have any practical experience of o0 visiting a factory. All the students become overwhelmed with joy when they heard about his intention of visiting the BSCIC industrial area of the district. He made everybody calm down and said that they need to take permission from the Head Master. Besides, some more things are to be ensured:

- When to go.
- How to go.
- How many teachers and students shall accompany.
- How to contact the authority of the visiting company.

At last he asked the students: What can it be called to forecast or thinking to visit the factory. The students replied in chorus: Planning. He thanked everybody. He told them that the prior thinking or forecasting before starting a job is called planning. To say more vividly Business planning is the advance decision making process of what to do, when to do, where to do and within how much time to spend about implementing a particular job. Correct planning helps to achieve target easily. With the help of planning, proper utilization of assets and elements of the organization is ensured. Duties and responsibilities can be distributed among the workers appropriately through planning. As a result, they become responsible and efficient.

Concept and Importance of Organizing

Mr. Proshanto Das, the owner of the 'Ashar Bani General Store' has been doing business in his locality with reputation for long. He has accumulated various products like readymade garments, cosmetics, baby foods and toys from Dhaka and Chittagong. But, the most lucrative thing in his business is the various kinds of pickle made by himself. Every year he buys Mango (aam), Hog Plum (ambra), Jujube (borui), Olive (Jolpai), and Amla (amloki) from the local market to make the pickle and sell them. For this reason, seasonally he appoints some women to help him to make and bottle the pickle in exchange of fixed salary. His pickle gets reputed day by day. He decided to open a separate division to make and sell the pickle. He permanently appointed the women who were temporarily helping him to make pickle. A person was appointed as manager. He distributed the responsibility of collecting raw materials, making and preserving the pickle all the year round.

All the jobs done by Mr. Proshato Das is the part of management of the business. These works are called organizing.

As per planning Mr. Proshanto has accumulated and coordinated the human resources and other elements of the business for proper utilization and has distributed jobs among the workers with duties and responsibilities. Organizing helps a company to achieve the objectives in an easy way. Proper utilization of the assets of the company is ensured. Controlling and operating the workers and employees working in the organization becomes easier. The velocity of work increases with the help of strong interpersonal relationship.

CHAPTER NINE

Marketing

Rafina is the student of class ten at Rasulpur village. Her father is a renowned vegetable farmer in their village. He grows various types of vegetables including Okra, tomato, hyacinth bean, bottle gourd, sweet gourd, brinjal etc. It is very wonderful to see the growing vegetables in the field. A lot of people from the village buy vegetables from him when he plucks them at the field. The rest of the vegetables are washed and cleaned and taken to market for selling arranged beautifully on a large basket. He is also careful so that the vegetables are not damaged. Rafina during her off days helps her father in the vegetable field for caring and plucking them. People from neighboring village also like his vegetable and buy them. She feels proud of her father's reputation.

In the above mentioned story, growing vegetables, conserving and selling it to the ultimate buyer, all tasks are referred to Marketing. In this chapter, we shall learn about the concept of marketing, activities, advertisement and other aspects of marketing.

After reading this chapter, we shall be able to –

- Describe the concept of marketing.
- Explain the activities of marketing.
- Describe the concept and types of distribution channel.
- Explain the marketing process of different goods
- Explain the concept of advertisement and its importance
- Mention the name of the media for advertisement and explain their activities
- Describe the concept of salesmanship and quality of a good salesman.

- Concept of Marketing

Generally, buying and selling of goods and services can be termed as marketing. But, in real sense the concept of marketing is wider. Marketing refers to all the activities related to supplying the goods and services from its manufacturer to the consumers. It means that marketing is the combination of all the activities from buying, selling, transportation, storing, standardizing, grading etc.

Marketing has special importance in today's business world. Because, success of a business not only depends upon the production of the products, it is also necessary to arrange to supply them to the consumers. Through marketing, the consumers can get quality goods and services. Effective marketing helps to increase production. With the improvement of marketing, industry, commerce and services also develop. It helps to create huge employment opportunity.

- Functions of Marketing

Marketing works as a bridge between the manufacturer and consumers. Marketing helps to create utility of possession, place and time of goods and services. The functions of marketing are analyzed below:

1. Buying: Buying is one of the main jobs of marketing. Goods and services are bought to use or reselling. Through buying of products and services ownership is established.
2. Selling: Another important task of marketing is to bring the buyer and seller together. Through selling the ownership of goods is transferred. Estimating the demand for products, buyer searching, pricing all are related to selling.
3. Transportation: Transportation creates the utility of place for a product and generates demand. Goods and services are transported from one place to another. In this way the products reach to the consumer from the manufacturer. With the help of transportation we have been able to use the electronic products manufactured in China. Similarly, shrimp/prawn or tea of our country is consumed by the people of other country.
4. Warehousing: Warehousing creates the utility of time of goods. At every stage of marketing, storing of goods is necessary. Many goods are grown at a particular season of the year and used over the whole year. To meet the demand all round the year, goods are stored in warehouse. For example, potato and tomato grown in the winter are available during the whole year with the help of warehousing.

5. Standardizing: Pricing of products is possible by standardizing them on the basis of quality, size, color and taste. As a result, the marketing of product becomes easier and velocity of sales increases.
6. Grading: Classification of products on the basis of quality is called grading. Generally, grading is done considering the weight, size and quality of product. As a result, sales become easier.
7. Packaging: Covering the products to look good and attractive and protect them from breakage is called packaging. Acceptability and sale of Industrial product such as freeze, television, soap and agricultural product such as pastured milk, fish and meat to the consumers depends upon packaging.
8. Collection of Information: Collection of information related to goods and services is also a task of marketing. To know the demand and supply of a product, buyers or consumer's choice and taste; gathering of information is necessary.
9. Consumer Analysis: Another important function of marketing is to analyze the consumers' taste, demand, characteristics and interest. Because, if this task is not done properly, the risk of the business increases and expansion of business is hindered.

• Concept of Distribution Channel

Sometimes, the manufacturers sell their produced goods to the consumers directly. But, in most of the cases, direct selling to the consumer is not possible. As a result, presence of intermediaries becomes necessary.

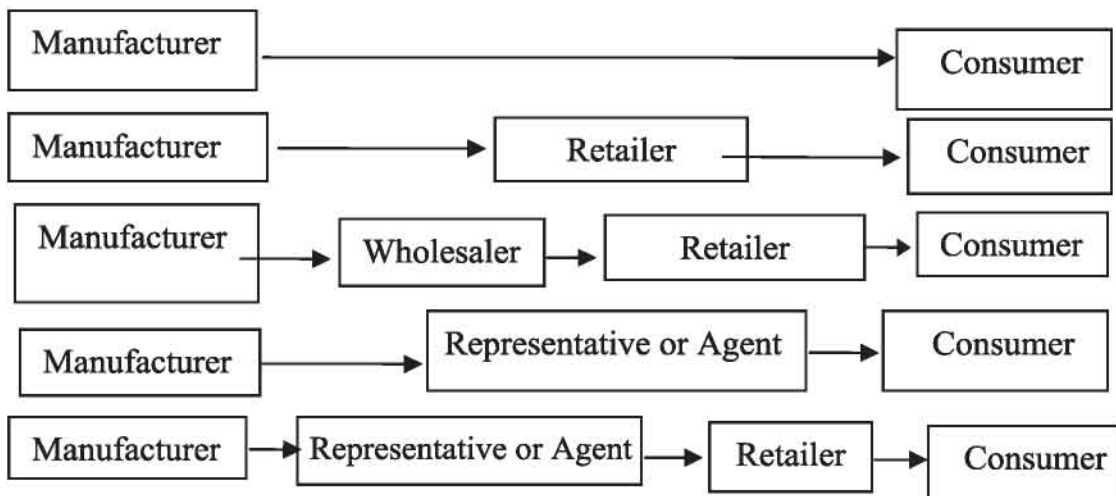

Business intermediaries work as bridge between the manufacturer and the consumer. Helps from the wholesaler and retailer is to be taken as business intermediaries in buying and selling as part of marketing. Distribution channel is known as the process to reach the goods and service from its manufacturer to the consumer. For example, consumers do not buy tea from its manufacturer which is produced at tea garden, rather the wholesaler buys it from the manufacturer. Then, he sells it to the retailer. Consumers buy tea from the retailer. In this way, the products reach the destination of consumer through a particular channel.

• Distribution Channel and Marketing of Different Goods:

Distribution channel depends upon the nature and types of goods and services. Distribution channel of different products are shown below:

1. Direct Sales: When the goods manufactured are directly sold to the consumers without the help of any intermediaries it is called direct distribution. Some agricultural products such as paddy, fruits, vegetables and industrial products such as molasses, sugar etc. are directly sold to the consumers.
2. Selling through Retailer: In some cases, to sell the goods and services, assistance is taken from the retailer as business intermediaries. The manufacturers sell their goods to the retailer and the retailer supplies them to the consumers as per demand. Normally, paddy, rice, potato, soap, biscuit, vermicelli etc. are sold and distributed through this channel. The manufacturers sell the product to the retailer at local hat and bazaar.

Diagram of various distribution channels:

3. Selling through Retailer & Wholesaler: Through this process, the manufacturer sells the products to the wholesaler and wholesaler sells them to the retailer and the retailer sells the products to the consumer. Places where agricultural products are grown in vast, the wholesaler buys goods from those places. Normally, paddy, jute, mustard, mango, banana and different types of vegetables are bought by the wholesalers. On the other hand, industrialized products such as paper, pens etc. are also bought by the wholesalers. At last those products reach the consumers via retailer.
4. Selling through Representative or Agent: In many cases, the manufacturers appoint representatives or agents at different places of the country and sell their products through them to the consumer. Various types of electronic goods such as TV, Freeze, Fan, agricultural products like fertilizer, seeds etc. are distributed through this channel.
5. Selling through Representatives/ Agents and Retailer: In this process, the manufacturer supplies the goods to the representatives or agents as per demand and then the agents supply their products to the retailer with the help of their own transportation. The consumers then can buy the products from the retailer. Various types of soft drinks and cosmetics are sold through this distribution channel in our country.

● Concept of Advertising

After closing of the school, Irfan saw a person distributing a paper at the school gate. He was also given one. It was written that a new stationary shop was going to be opened at their bazaar. Where, they will be able to find books, papers, pen, pencil, bag and other related things at a cheaper rate. On the inaugural occasion, every buyer will be presented with a colorful calendar. After returning home, he showed the paper to his elder brother and he told that it was a leaflet. These are distributed for the campaign of any business.

From the above event, the leaflet distributed for the general buyers of their shop is a media of advertisement. Advertisement is strategy or way to attract the attention of the mass to a particular product or service. Every day, we see or hear a lot of different attractive advertisement on television, radio and paper. Other media for advertisement are leaflet, magazine, transport, billboard, signboard, internet etc.

Billboard of an advertisement (Teletalk)

CHAPTER TEN

Assistance for Entrepreneurship Development

Different types of assistances are necessary to take initiative to establish a business firm. These assistances motivate the entrepreneur to set up the business or industry and operate them successfully. In this chapter, we shall learn about various assistances provided by Bangladesh Industrial policy, different Government & private commercial banks and non-government development organization.

After reading this chapter, we shall be able to –

- Explain the concept of Assistance.
- Mention the types and sources of assistance for business in Bangladesh.
- Describe the types of assistance mentioned in the Industrial Policy.
- Describe the types of assistance provided by Bangladesh Small and Cottage Industries Corporation.
- Describe the types of assistance provided by the commercial banks.
- Describe the types of assistance provided by the Non Government Development Organizations.

• Concept of Assistance for Entrepreneurship

To start a new business or industry is a creative and structural job. But, risk is also involved with this. As a result, nobody wants to come forward to take this job. For this reason various assistances are necessary. Assistance favoring motivates a potential entrepreneur to set up business or industry and run it smoothly. On the basis of nature of assistance, it is classified in three types: Motivating, Supporting and Preserving. Motivating assistances include different types of training, awareness of opportunities for investment, huge campaign of government support relating to establishing industries, technical and economic information sharing and providing consultancy. With the help of supportive assistance, the entrepreneur gets facilities related to establishing industries, operation, utilizing assets and other benefits. Registration, supply of capital, infrastructural support, tax holiday, subsidy etc. are mentionable supportive assistances. On the other hand, preserving assistances include the supports to remove the hindrances to maintain the operational activities and expansion of business.

Sources of assistances in Bangladesh like other countries of the world, various government and non-government institutions have been formed which are helpful for business entrepreneurship and setting up business and there are contributing to trade and commerce. There institutions provide necessary direction and assistance for entrepreneurship of business and industry, setting up industry and marketing goods in the country. Besides, various helpful aspects of business entrepreneurship have been mentioned in National Industrial Policy which can be motivational for many people.

A list of such institutions is given below:

Sources of Assistances
1. Bangladesh Small and Cottage Industries Corporation
2. Bangladesh Development Bank Limited
3. Commercial Banks
4. Bangladesh Industrial Technical Assistance Centre
5. Bangladesh Council for Scientific and Industrial Research.
6. Directorate of Youth Development
7. Directorate of Women Affairs
8. Non Government Development Organization

Bangladesh Small & Cottage Industries Corporation

While working as a Minister of Labor, Commerce and Industry under the Juktafront Government in 1957, Father of the nation Bangabandhu Sheikh Mujibur Rahman placed the bill to the parliament to establish a "Small and Cottage Industries Corporation". As a result of this, East Pakistan Small and Cottage Industries Corporation (EPSCIC) was formed on 30th May 1957 which is named as Bangladesh Small and Cottage Industries Corporation (BSCIC) after independence. Its 55th anniversary has been celebrated in 2012 with immense pride. At present BSCIC has been working as a main assisting body for the development of the small and cottage industries Bangladesh. The corporation is supervised under the Ministry of Industry. The main objective of this corporation is to provide investment advice for the development of this kind of industries. Other assistances provided by BSCIC are as follows:

- Providing information related to industries
- Selecting entrepreneur
- Development of industrial entrepreneurship
- Selecting of project
- Evaluation of project
- Infrastructural development
- Management and Efficiency Development
- Designing of Product
- Assistance in Supplying Raw Materials
- Assistance in distribution of finished goods
- Registration of Small and Cottage Industries

For the above mentioned assistances and any other advice for setting up an industry, an entrepreneur has to communicate with the district BSCIC Industry Assistance Center. Till April, 2012 we had 74 BSCIC industrial area, training institute and 4277 factories in our country. 33 lac 81 thousand people are working in these factories.

Bangladesh Development Bank Limited

Bangladesh Development Bank Limited (BDBL) is a complete state owned commercial bank. BDBL started operation since 3rd January 2010 combining Bangladesh Shilpa Bank and Bangladesh Shilpa Rin Shangstha. Besides commercial banking this bank provides financial and technical support to the government and private industries. The main task of BDBL is to extend loan and provide advise to the entrepreneur for rapid industrialization in the country for setting up new industries, modernizing existing industries, changing of machineries and expansion of business and patronizing agro based industries.

The mentionable assistances provided by BDBL are as follows:

a. Priority of the Small Entrepreneur

It is undeniable to acknowledge the role played by the small and medium enterprises (SME) for the total economic development of a developing country like Bangladesh. The sector being labor intensive can immediately contribute to increase national income and employment generation. SMEs are called 'Employment Generating Machine'. Between the small and medium enterprises in our country; entrepreneur and entrepreneurship for small enterprises have more potentiality for employment generation, reduce unemployment and ensuring economic growth. In this connection, as per direction from Bangladesh Bank, the branches of BDBL extends 40% loan favoring small entrepreneurs of their total loan budgeted for SME sector. The rest amount is distributed among the medium entrepreneurs.

b. Prioritizing the Manufacturing and Service Sector: Bangladesh government has given priority to manufacturing and service industry over trade to ensure employment generation and enhancement of production. As a result, the branches of BDBL have to make loan favoring manufacturing industries and agro based service industry.

c. Priority of the Women Entrepreneur: Any woman who is proprietor of sole proprietorship firm, partner in a partnership firm and owner of 51 % share in Joint Stock Company, can be called a women entrepreneur. 50 percent of the total population in Bangladesh is women. Involvement of the women in to the mainstream of economy is necessary for sustainable economic development of the country due to existing population structure. Our women have honesty, interest, creativity and work efficiency. Specially, their activities in micro credit and continuous participation in garments industry has a vital role for industrialization. For this reason, BDBL has been extending more loan facility with simple terms for the small and medium industry women entrepreneurs.

Commercial Banks

The four nationalized commercial Banks (Sonali, Janata, Agrani and Ruapli) and Bangladesh Krishi Bank with help of their branches all around the country have been providing financial services to industry and business entrepreneurs. Specially, they have taken initiatives to quicken the expansion of small and medium enterprises and business with a view to the development of labor intensive and employment generating economic development. The Sonali Bank Limited as a development partner of the government has been providing various services to sole proprietorship, partnership, private limited companies and public limited companies for the development of SME sector. The loan limit varies from Taka 50 thousand to Taka 10 crore depending upon the nature of industry or business. The term of the loan is fixed on the basis of the project. The tenure is one year for working capital and three to seven years for term loan. The prerequisites to avail the loan are as follows:

- The entrepreneur must have two years of experience
- The entrepreneur must be sound, educated and age should be between 18 to 60 years
- Defaulters, Bankrupt, Insane and dim-witted can not apply for the loan
- The entrepreneur should be Bangladeshi
- Women entrepreneur will be given priority

CHAPTER ELEVEN

Ethics and Social Responsibilities in Business

The main objective of business is generating profit. However, it has to maintain some ethics and social responsibilities as well. As a part of the society, the entrepreneur and business organization has to bear in mind and uphold the idea of social values, morality and positive attitude towards society. In this chapter, we shall learn about the different aspects of ethics and social responsibility of a business.

After reading this chapter, we shall be able to –

- Explain the concept and importance of business values, and ethics
- Explain the concept of social responsibilities in business.
- Explain the mode of responsibility towards state, society, buyer and worker.
- Explain the features and effect of air pollution, water pollution, sound pollution and land contamination due to business.
- Identify the social responsibilities of business in preventing environmental pollution.
- Describe the various types of development works of social responsibilities of different business.

Concept of Business Values and Ethics

The concept of values and ethics are indispensable to each other. Value is the wisdom and attitude of the society which is treated as valuable and eligible to be followed by others. Values and ethics help a man to differentiate between justice and injustice, right and wrong, good and bad, etc. It indicates the positive, wellbeing and goodness of human life. Ethical principle means the ability to differentiate between good and bad, justice and injustice, do's and don'ts etc. It is really necessary to follow the ethical standard of the behavior of people to form a happy society and country as a whole.

Ethics

The word ethics has evolved from the Greek 'Ethos' which means the standard of human behavior. Ethics is related to our daily activities. We know that the responsibility of a teacher is to teach the students properly. This is not the end. He has to ensure whether the students understand the lessons. He should also look after the attentive-inattentive students, to examine the home works of the students and make correction if there is any mistake; all these tasks are included in his ethical responsibilities. Like a teacher a student needs to be followed some ethics; such as going to school in time, doing home work and follow the ideology of the teacher. Ethics means the capacity of analyzing the good and bad and accepting the right things. It is the part of ethics to carry out responsibilities by the teacher and student properly.

Business Ethics

In a business there are lots of task related from the very beginning to the operational level. To proceed with the tasks with proper, decent and correct measures, ethics works as a guideline for this. Besides, the business ethics or ethical value helps us to be well behaved in the business world.

Business is a social institution. A business organization is formed and continues to meet up the demand for various goods and services for our daily use. An entrepreneur or businessman sells the products to the consumers with addition of profit with the production cost or purchase price. Profit is the difference between the selling price and buying price or selling price and production cost. If any body creates an artificial demand for a product to gain extra profit, then it will go against ethics. There are some ethical values in operating a business. The pricing of the product should be fixed in such way so that the seller can make profit along with keeping the price within the purchasing power of the buyer. On the other hand, the business person should not supply such products which are harmful for the society. It means that business should be operated through maintaining the interest of the stakeholders. Other ethics of business are as follows:

- To maintain honesty
- Not to produce and market harmful products
- Not to cheat with the customer
- Not to sale expired product and goods
- Not to make any artificial scarcity of products
- To follow the commercial and industrial law of the state
- Not to pollute environment
- To contribute to the welfare of the society.

Necessity of Business Values and Ethics

In our country, making excessive profit and illegality in business is increasing day by day. Ethical practice in business in Bangladesh is not satisfactory. Every day we can see a lot of negative news in the dailies related to business. For example we can say selling of dead chicken, contaminating food, producing and selling of low quality products, cheating in weight, fish and fruits with formalin, mixing of harmful colour in food, dangerous for health, giving false and exaggerated information of products, using low quality of products in construction, contaminated medicine, plying of vehicles ineligible to run on the road. The impact of these unethical activities is severe. A number of children have been becoming sick and dying from tainted fake medicine. People are getting diseased from eating various poisonous foods. If this unethical activity of businessmen is not stopped immediately; very soon we shall find ourselves in an ailing society. The result of which will be devastating. For the following reasons necessity of business values and ethics are immense:

1. Man is the best creation of God. Unethical activities and attitude is not expected from them.
2. A businessman lives on selling manufactured or supplied goods. It is their ethical obligation to supply right goods and services
3. At present, people are falling sick of complex and severe diseases from eating contaminated foods. It has a dire impact. Only, business ethics can save us from this dire situation.
4. Medicine contamination causes death in many cases. The ethical mentality of the manufacturer of medicine can save from this devastating consequence.

5. Business is a social institution. It is responsible to look after the good – bad, welfare of the society.
6. Though, generation of profit is the main objective of business, it has some social responsibility as well. To avoid the social responsibility is not good for the business.
7. To carry out social responsibility is obligatory for the development of business
8. The role of ethics is immense to maintain and operate the business with sound and proper way. The decision of the business are correct if the general rule for ethics are followed.
9. Though, temporary financial gain is possible from unethical activities of the business its result is never good. There are many businesses that have gone astray by getting involved in unethical works though they made a good start.
10. Everybody hates the businessman involved in unethical activities. There is no alternative of respect and honor for the businessman other than availing ethics and right path-ways of business.

Concept of Social Responsibility and Its Importance

The social responsibility of business means to contribute to the well being and welfare activities of the society along with earning profit. From ancient times, the objective of the business has concentrated on profit only. But, the concept has been changed now. Business is a social organization. Its activities also revolve around the society. To estimate the demand for goods and services and manufacture and supply them accordingly to meet up the demand are the main activities of business. To live a sound life there are some more demands such as education, health service, entertainment etc. It is the duty of the government to arrange to supply the expensive necessities for the people, since individual can not arrange to supply them because of the incapacity. Recently, some business organization are coming forward to perform various public welfare task like establishing schools, college, hospital, providing scholarships to the meritorious poor pupils, etc. Since business is a social institution, its existence and profitability largely depends upon the support of the mass. Carrying out social responsibility is the ethical responsibility of every business.

In real sense, a business person is a creative and well aware member of the society. He is creative, mindful and effective. He has the right to receive something from the society and similarly he has some responsibility to give something back to the society. If he spends a part of his earned profit for society it will increase his honor and status in the society.

Case Study

Abul Kashem is an intelligent, brave, trustworthy and honest young man. He plays a role to organize every program in his society. He used to visit a pharmacy on his way to school while studying. Sometimes, he used to help the owner of the pharmacy in various tasks. In this way, he acquired some knowledge on pharmacy business. He failed to continue his studies after SSC. So he sold some ornaments of his mother and started a pharmacy with a small amount of capital. He remembered some advises from his father such as 'Never deceive a person, 'Give honest advice, if sought by anyone' 'Never tell lies' 'Respect your elders' 'Help the destitute'. Abul Kashem always followed ethics in operating his business. He always gave good advice to patients about good doctors. Many patients with complex diseases have been benefitted from his advice. Besides, he used to sell genuine medicine. He never tried to make more profit by taking higher price or selling duplicate medicine. For all these reasons, his profit grew rapidly and he became reputed as an honest business person. Besides, his business also prospered.

After a period of time, his son, Abdur Rahman took responsibility of the pharmacy. But, out of his greed, he started to sell duplicate medicine. Many people suffered from buying medicine from his shop. He gained disreputation within short span of time as a dishonest businessman. Gradually, the business lost its fame and had to be shut down.

Social Responsibility of Business to Various Stakeholders

In this competitive business world, the business person has to carry out responsibility to various stakeholders along with maintaining sustenance as per profit growth. The stakeholders of business are state, society, buyer, worker etc. These parties are involved with the business by some means.

Responsibility to State

The objective of the state is to ensure that business is done protecting the interest of the people. Government is happy if demand for goods and services of mass is met through establishing business and developing employment as well as providing tax regularly. The following responsibilities are to be carried by the business to the state:

- a) To pay Tax to the government regularly
- b) To follow the rules and regulations properly
- c) To contribute for employment generation and economic development

Responsibility to the Society

The business is developed from enjoying various facilities from the society. So, business has to carry out the following responsibilities favoring the society.

- a) Producing quality products and supply them as per demand of the society.
- b) Creating opportunity for employment generation
- c) Assisting in various public welfare works
- d) Stand by the people at natural calamities
- e) Safeguard the environment from pollution
- f) Not creating artificial storage of goods for making artificial scarcity to make extra profit.

Responsibility to Customer and Consumer

The success of business depends upon the trust and cooperation of buyer and consumer. So, the businessman has to carry out the following responsibilities:

- a) To keep product market stabilized
- b) To Supply quality products
- c) To make products easily available
- d) To provide various information on products and market

Responsibility to Employees

The profit of the business is earned through the untiring effort of employees and staffs. Thus, business can not be operated ignoring their interest. With the progress of business their salaries and wages should be increased, bonus and increment to be awarded and as a whole their condition should be improved. A business person has to perform the following responsibilities towards the employees:

- a) To provide proper wages and financial benefit.
- b) To provide job security
- c) To ensure suitable working environment
- d) To arrange training and promotion
- e) To arrange for residence and treatment

Social Activities by Different Business Organization

Though for many decades, the social responsibility of business has been disregarded, now a days, many organization of home and abroad are coming forward for social activities. Various banks and Mobile operators are stepping forward to carry out social responsibilities. Dutch-Bangla Bank, Prime Bank, Islami Bank, Teletalk, Grameen Phone, Robi, Banglalink, Citycell, Airtel; such organizations are contributing for the social development through working on poverty alleviation, providing educational expenses for poor meritorious students, awarding scholarships and providing financial assistance for the development of games and sports. Some organizations are coming ahead to explore the genius among the youth. In Bangladesh, the tendency of corporate social responsibility has started recently. Bangladesh is hopeful that the profit oriented entrepreneurs of our country will come forward to carry out the social responsibility more and more in the future along with operating business.

Environment Pollution and Business

River Pollution from the industrial wastage

The main disadvantage of business especially of industry is environmental pollution. Industrial wastage and liquids are polluting the river and canal water. Because of contamination, water becomes toxic for the things living under water including fish. On the other hand, throwing wastage here and there, and fumes from the vehicles pollute air. Factory machine and generator with their awful noise cause serious sound pollution. Besides, in the name of industrialization trees are cut down and hills are planed without any limits and environments are polluted. In the name of land development for residence, filling up the canals and water reservoir for residential purpose, river erosion, operating the ineligible vehicles in the roads and extensive use of air conditioning machineries are responsible for environmental pollution. For this reason health hazard is increasing and on the other hand living creatures are being seriously endangered.

Government has introduced new law to reduce pollution. But, lack of proper implementation of the law the level of pollution is increasing day by day. Lack of awareness about the effects of pollution, disposing wastage here and there and flawed sewerage system are also responsible for environmental pollution.

Besides these it is necessary to increase awareness through mass media, proper application of law, developing wastage management and inclusion of course on environmental pollution in the curriculum, if we want to make us safe from the environmental pollution.

Responsibilities of business Organizations in preventing environment polution:

Wastages are being emitted from every industry. For example, lather industry, and dying industry use chemicals which are harmful for environment. These harmful wastages should not be thrown in flowing water of the rivers, canals and ditches. In this case the owners and the businessmen should ensure about wastage management while operating and during the time of establishment of industries. For this, establishing waste treatment plant should be ensured for every industry.

He had the qualities like business talent, hard work, visionary and creativeness. He was born at the vantage of Bhagalpur, in Bajitpur upazila in Kishoregonj district in 1928. His father Late Aftab Uddin was normal contractor in Mymensing District Board. His mother's name is Mrs. Rahima Akhter Khatun. He was second among his five brothers and three sisters. His uncle was the Overseer of Kolkata Power Development Board. He completed primary education from the local primary school and went to the Sorachor Shibnath High School for his secondary level education. Then he took admission at Bajitpur High School. After some times, he went to Kolkata with his uncle Mr. Murshed Uddin. He completed Matriculation from the Ripon High School of Kolkata. He attended the I.A. exam from the Horogonga College of Musnshigonj in 1948, but could not pass it. His formal education came to an end because of adverse surroundings and responsibilities and liabilities of his family. He joined the C & B Department as an Work Sarker with salary of only taka seventy seven to remove the financial insolvency of the family. Later, he was promoted to the post of Lower Division Clark of the same department. He was influenced by his uncle's job and father's business as a contractor. After two and half years in 1951, he left the job and enlisted himself as a third class contractor. He established a company named Bengal Development Corporation Limited and fully started his business with a capital of only 3/4 thousand taka. His hard work and sole attention to the business and cordial attitude gradually made him a successful entrepreneur and one of the richest persons in the country. At the very beginning of his life as a contractor, he completed the construction of Kishoregonj Post Office. Afterwards, he did the road construction from Gulistan to Tikatuli in Dhaka.

Because of honesty in the business and quality of his works, he became second class and subsequently first class contractor by 1953. He was interested in all types of construction. He had investment in Housing, Roads, Bridge, Irrigation System, Sanitation etc. He used to acquire knowledge from his works and applied them in his subsequent works. With his visionary power, he realized that the surrounding area of Dhaka city shall get populated and the demand for the land shall increase. For this reason, he bought vast area of land in Dhaka, Mirpur, Savar, Joydevpur and Kaliakoir, He used those land for setting up industries and housing. Day by day, the value of his investment was increasing with the increase of land value. During 1960, he established a timber factory at Chittagong and a glass factory at Gingira in Dhaka. He established a housing company named Eastern Housing Limited in 1964 to meet up the increasing demand for the residential purpose, the company is now one of the renowned name in the housing industry of the country. All the companies are known as Islam Group of Companies which was established in 1965. The group includes Eastern Housing Ltd., Navana Ltd., Millners Limited, Essential Products Limited, Dhaka Fibres Limited, Crescent International Limited, Navana Sports Limited, Dhaka Re-Rolling Mills Ltd. Aftab Automobiles Limited, Aftab Dairy Limited etc. People more than one lac are working in various organization established by him.

Hard work, honesty, sincerity and confidence all these qualities made him a successful man. The identity of this extraordinary son of Bengal is not limited to as an industrialist. He was a social reformer, successful organizer and model of efficient manager. All his achievement was possible because of his hard work and sincerity. Not only investment and employment generation, but also his activities of social responsibility covered various contribution to the society including education, health, food, banking, agriculture and sports. He established many shelters for the destitute, institutions for kids, madrasa and school. 350 bed Jahurul Islam Medical College & Hospital established by him at Bajitpur is the largest private medical college in Bangladesh. Besides, establishing Nursing Training Institute and Jahurul Islam Education Complex is his worthy deeds. He had also contributed in many ways to the great Liberation War in 1971. Samson H. Chowdhury (1930-2012)

Public well wisher and the Chairman of the Square Group, Samson H. Chowdhury is the unforgettable name in the history of industry and commerce of Bangladesh. He was born on 25th September, 1926 in the Faridpur District. He is the son of E.H. Chowdhury and Latika Chowdhury. His father was a medical officer of outdoor dispensary. He studied from 1930 to 1940 in the Bishnupur High School in Kolkata. He attained Senior Cambridge Degree from there. Then, he obtained Diploma in Management from the Harvard University

School. After finishing his studies, he got back to his village Ataikula in Pabna. From the very boyhood, he was involved with various medicines because of his fathers profession. After thinking a lot, he decided to take the business of pharmacy or medicine shop as a profession. He started a small shop in the village market. The time was 1952. In 1958, he got the license to set up medicine factory. He, along with his three other friends providing Tk.20,000 each; with capital of total taka 80,000.00 and 12 workers, they established 'Square Pharmaceuticals Limited'. The first medicine produced in their factory was blood refining 'Aston Syrup'. They had to purchase raw materials from the local importer at a very high price. They never compromised with quality. Only because of the quality of the medicine, the doctors used to prescribe it. At that time, their medicine became more demanding than that of the reputed firms. He dreamed of square to be a large company. With this dream in mind, he advanced forward against all the odds gradually, capitalizing his immense zeal and courage. His small initiative has now turned into vast Square Group of Industries due to his hard work, honesty and discipline. At present, approximately 30000 workers are employed there. Not only medicine, this group has expanded its business to cosmetics, textile, agro based products, technology, healthcare, media, etc. Products of Square have spread all over the world. The quality of the product is acknowledged both in home and abroad. The medicine of Square is being exported to 50 countries. He was the Chairman of MasRanga Television, one of the reputed private television channels in the country. Besides, he was the Chairman of the Metropolitan Chamber and Society of Medicine Industry. He was also involved with the International Chamber and Commerce, Bangladesh. Shova Odhikary has written about him "He was the owner-manager, accountant, typist, clerk, worker and medical representative in a row". There is no work that he has not performed. He untiringly moved around the market, towns, cities, ports of the country for marketing his medicine. Now, Square is a proud name after passing many ups and downs over the period. Square Group had been selected as the Best Tax Payer for the year 2009- 2010 by the National Board of Revenue.

Various products manufactured by square are used in every home. The product of square has been adored in both home and abroad due to its standard, competitive price, quality and discipline in work. The addiction of creativity has made Samson H. Chowdhury a successful industrialist and triumphant entrepreneur. With his untiring effort and passion, he established industries one after another. At present, among different institutions of Square Group: the mentionable names are Square Pharmaceuticals, Square Toiletries, Square Textiles, Square Holdings, Square Spinning, Square Consumer Products, Square Knit Fabrics, Square Fashions, Square Herbal and Naturals, Square Hospitals, etc. This entrepreneur has mentioned patience, perseverance and honesty as the basis for his success in interviews with different media. He believed that highest level of values and practice of ethics has put Square to the trust of people. He thought that the key to success was the smooth relation and combined effort of the worker and entrepreneur. There was never any labor unrest in the organization of this labor friendly entrepreneur. The life of this great active person ended on 5th January 2012 at the age of 86 years. His spouse name is Anika Chowdhury. His three sons Tapan Chowdhury, Anjon Chowdhury, Swapan Chowdhury are established in their own business.
